Health Commissioner Here Reported Offered Ashland County Post

Dr. Benton V. D. Scott, commissioner for the public health district composed of Fayette Ross and Pike counties and the city of Chillicothe (which is under a separate board from that of Ross County) was reported late Wednesday to have received an offer to become the health commissioner for the Ashland County and city boards of health at an annual salary of $15,000.

The city of Ashland has a population of 15,000 and Ashland county approximately 40,000

That there had been no official or formal offer of that kind made to him, was explicitly stated Thursday by Dr. Scott at his office in the courthouse here, Thursday morning.

Dr. Scott stated that some member (unidentified) of the public health staff in Ashland County had called him some time ago to ask him if he would be interested in the health commissioner position that would pay him a considerably larger salary. He said he replied that he presumed any official would indicate an affirmative answer to that question if all conditions otherwise were satisfactory.

DR. SCOTT said he had given the matter no further thought until Wednesday when he was called by a staff member of the Ashland County board and was told that the board had held a meeting in which three men were considered for the position and that it had decided to offer it to him.

"I have received no formal offer," Dr. Scott said, "and have made no commitments of any kind. I certainly would not make any decision until I had sufficient knowledge of the position and the situation at Ashland before I even took the matter up with the boards which I am now serving. Even then I certainly hope no one will suspect that I would use such an offer as a lever to persuade the boards which now employ me to raise the salary of the position."

Dr. Scott said that since taking over the position of health commissioner in Fayette, Ross and Pike counties, he has been happy in the work in this district and has met with good cooperation. He indicat-

Senate Panel Softens Troop Use Statement

Administration Sees President Getting Authority He Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Democratic revision of President Eisenhower's Middle East resolution had tentative administration approval today.

Though Senate action and further House consideration still are necessary, Eisenhower appeared assured of strong congressional backing for military and economic steps to resist Communist inroads there if necessary.

In Thomasville, Ga., White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said the revision "calls for a little further study" by both Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles, with whom the vacationing President talked by phone.

"But both believe," he added, "the language is designed to give the President the authority he asked for."

* * *

AFTER REVISING the resolution, the two committees approved it 20-8, and recommended its adoption by the Senate.

The House, making no major change in the resolution Eisenhower originally requested, already has passed it 355-61. Any Senate changes still would have to be considered by the House.

The House language would "authorize" the President to use troops to defend victims of Communist aggression who request aid. The Senate committees revised it to say that "if the President determines" such a step is necessary "the United States is prepared" to use troops for that purpose.

The whole battle in the committee centered around the constitutional question of whether Congress can authorize the President to use U. S. troops, an authority many contended he already has as commander in chief under the Constitution.

The amendment approved by the Senate committee, in lieu of authorizing the President to take the actions he deems necessary, says:

"The United States regards as vital to the national interest and world peace the preservation of the independence and integrity of the nations of the Middle East.

"To this end, if the President determines the necessity thereof, the United States is prepared to use armed forces to assist any nation or group of nations requesting assistance against armed aggression from any country controlled by international communism: proving that such employment shall be consonant with the treaty obligations of the United States and with the charter of the United Nations."

* * *

AS APPROVED by the House the resolution:

1. Authorizes the President to employ U. S. armed forces to assist any Middle East nations requesting assistance from aggression by international communism.

2. Authorizes him to spend up to $200 million in available foreign aid funds in his discretion until June 30 to bolster military defenses of such nations and give them economic assistance where needed.

The resolution approved by the joint committee retains this spending authority with the provision that before the President spends any of the $200 million he notify congressional committees 15 days in advance into which countries it will be channeled.

Dock Strike Accord Seen As Nearing

NEW YORK (AP) — Optimistic statements by both sides have raised hopes for speedy settlement of the dock strike idling ports from Maine to Virginia.

Spokesmen for union and management emerged from bargaining session Wednesday night in a more cheerful mood.

"With any reasonableness on the part of the union we can reach a contract tomorrow," said Alexander Chopin, chairman of the New York Shipping Assn., the employers group.

"I feel more optimistic, in view of all that happened during the day, that the matters outstanding will be resolved shortly," said Vouis Waldman, counsel for the independent International Longshormen's Assn.

In addition, Joseph Finnegan, director of federal mediation, told newsmen the parties were "not very far apart."

The strike of some 45,000 dockers from Portland, Maine, to Hampton Roads, Va., began Tuesday after an 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction cooling-off period expired.

The strike straitjacketed the New York waterfront, already beset by a tugboat strike now in its 14th day.

By late Wednesday the dock walkout had idled some 150 general cargo craft and some smaller passenger vessels.

Couple Ordered To Leave County

BATAVIA (AP) — Mrs. Rosalie Dull, 27, of Erie, Pa., and William Stone, 42, of Mansfield escaped a possible jail sentence here Wednesday when they agreed to "leave the county immediately."

They pleaded guilty to charges of child neglect in connection with the death of Mrs. Dull's six-month-old baby. Judge Orville W. Halbisch did not impose sentence when the couple agreed to leave Clermont County.

The baby died Friday in an automobile in which Mrs. Dull and Stone, with her two children, were enroute to Spottsville, Ky. The Clermont County coroner said the baby died of pneumonia.

Officer, Burglar Hurt in Gunfight

MARION (AP)—Patrolman Marshall Wilds, 30, was taken to a hospital here with a bullet wound after exchanging gunfire Wednesday night with a burglar.

Police said the burglar, James Patrick Sickels, 31, of Newark, was also wounded and is in serious condition.

Injured Boy Finally Breaks Long Silence

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) — A 14-year-old boy, stricken by a brain hemorrhage last May and silent since then, spoke for the first time in nine months last Thursday, his family has disclosed.

Gabriel Aguilera Jr. collapsed on a baseball field last May. He wasn't injured but suffered brain hemorrhage. He remained in a coma for several months and was in a hospital most of last year.

He moved his hands and legs a little, but hadn't spoken a word until Thursday when his mother, at his bedside, said: "I am so tired of listening to my own voice I wish you would talk to me once in a while, junior. Why don't you say 'Dickie.' "

That is the name of his 3-year old brother.

Gabriel smiled and said "Dickie."

"What else can you say?" his mother asked. And the boy replied with the names of family members and friends.

"Mama, I always wanted to say something to you," he added, "but the words just wouldn't come out."

Christians Seen Challenge to Reds

CINCINNATI (AP)—The "strong, clear voice" of dedicated young Christians was described here today as the best challenge to Communist propaganda.

The Rev. Philip Potter of New York, youth secretary of the World Council of Churches with headquarters in Gereva, Switzerland, cited the revolt by teen-agers in Hungary as a case in point.

Nary a Thin Dime Found by Probers

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A 16-member assay commission has completed its inspection of two United States mints without finding a single thin dime.

It found 216,655,100 dimes produced in 1956 were all just the right thickness, as well as 76,478,500 quarters and 4,032,000 half dollars.

Commission Chairman Charles A. Eaton Jr., Newark, N.J., banker, announced the money was "OK." Each of the coins must measure up to a certain weight standard and contain nine parts of silver to one part of alloy metal.

Dulles Plan in Middle East Seen as Creating New Doubts

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Confusion sometimes has spread around Secretary of State Dulles like oil around a torpedoed ship. This is one of the times, although he's still afloat and shows no signs of sinking yet.

The Eisenhower administration, which appears anxious to make everybody happy in the Middle East, seems to be making nobody happy. It's in a box over Egypt and Israel. Dulles came up with a key which so far has opened nothing.

Israel, despite United Nations' resolutions, has refused to withdraw its troops from the Gaza Strip and an area around the Gulf of Aqaba. It gave two reasons:

Before it withdrew from either place, it wanted guarantees that Egypt would not be able to raid Israel across Gaza or blockade Israeli shipping in the Gulf of Aqaba. The U. N. offered no guarantees. It just said: "Get out."

Israel's refusal was getting Dulles and American foreign policy into a jam. Israel is an American friend. The United States helped create Israel. But the United States also wants to win the friendship of the Arabs, including Egypt.

This week the Arab states were ready to ask the U. N. — including the United States — to put pressure on Israel through sanctions. This would have been hypocritical. The U. N. didn't invoke sanctions against Russia when it refused to get out of Hungary.

Before the sanctions move could be started, Dulles sought a way out with a proposal. It's so vague that he seemed to be shooting from the hip without thinking it through.

He said if Israel would withdraw its troops this government would support the principle of free navigation for Israel in the Gulf of Aqaba and would favor the use of U. N. forces between Israel and Egypt to prevent raids across Gaza.

One of the troubles immediately apparent in this idea was the word "support." What did that mean? Would the United States use armed force to make Egypt let Israeli ships use the gulf? If so, Dulles certainly didn't say so, and other officials have carefully avoided any suggestion that force might be used.

As a matter of fact, Dulles has said nothing directly for publication. All this was handled obliquely at the State Department so that Dulles is never directly quoted as saying anything.

But what right would the United States have to use force — if that's what Dulles had in mind, and he probably didn't — against Egypt to make her give Israeli ships clear sailing in the gulf? None.

If force wasn't to be used, then what would "support" for Israel the U. N.? That could hardly be called a guarantee for Israel, although Israel has been asking guarantees before pulling her troops back.

The Israelis' reaction could have been predicted: They want to know what Dulles means by "support"? And now Egyptian officials have attacked the Dulles proposal.

14 Die in Rest Home Flames

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (AP)—Fire that "all of a sudden" enveloped a three-story rest home killed 14 patients Wednesday.

Thirteen other patients and employes needed hospital treatment, with one patient listed today as in critical condition.

All together 17 patients, 10 employes and three children of the home manager, Kenneth Patin, were carried from the blazing building, hobbled out on crutches, used their wheel chairs onto the hilltop lawn of the 71-year-old structure or raced out on foot.

Many of the 13 found dead in the tangled mass of debris died in their beds. The 4th victim died in a hospital.

Firemen who answered the alarm within four or five minutes after it was sounded told of seeing one woman kneeling in prayer in her bed as flames swirled over her.

Firemen could find no survivor who could immediately tell them what started the fire. Today fire officials dug through ashes of debris in a search for the cause.

The home, in which one person died in a 1942 blaze, was operating under license suspension.

Dr. Edmund C. Zimmerer, state health commissioner, said the home was inspected last Aug. 9 and that it was properly licensed. He said the license was issued to Mrs. Ivy Lee Gilmore.

Lyle Roder, Council Bluffs public service director, said he and a health department inspector looked over the convalescent home last month and it met requirements for fire safety. He said an automatic fire detection system recently was installed.

Fire Chief Waldo Merrill described the flames as sweeping the building "all of a sudden."

Violet Hedrick, an employe, said she sprang up from her lunch table at the sharp cry of "fire" and ran to the ladies room where she saw curtains ablaze.

"The next thing it looked like the whole place was on fire," she related.

Lausche Says He's Starting To 'Get on Track' in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio) said today he is "beginning to get on the track" in his new job.

Lausche, five times governor of Ohio before he was elected to the Senate last November, conceded he has had some difficulty adjusting to his new routine.

"As governor, I had decisions to make almost every minute of the day," he said. "But here it's different. There is a different kind of work to do, but I think I'm beginning to get on the track."

The big difference, Lausche said, is that in Washington he must deal with world matters as well as domestic problems.

The Ohio senator indicated in his first Senate speech and vote last week he is ready to become a member of the Senate's governmental economy bloc.

* * *

HE OPPOSED, on what he said was a matter of principle, a measure to provide expenses and allowances for former residents.

The voices of Lausche and Sen. Byrd (D-Va) were among the few raised in opposition when the Senate passed the bill by voice vote and sent it to the House.

Appointed to membership in the Banking and Commerce committees, Lausche will be in a position to deal directly with legislation affecting business, finance, housing, communications and other important issues.

His record of only one brief Senate speech in a month indicates the Ohioan is feeling his way slowly. But those who know Lausche best are betting he won't be so silent for long.

ALLIANCE (AP)—A $1,500 reward has been offered by Frank E. Wells, owner of the home where Eldon Shoup was killed last Thursday night, for information leading to the conviction of the killer.

Shoup, 25, and his father, Earl, 49, encountered two burglars who were fleeing from the house after rifling a safe of $1,000. The elder Shoup, who was looking after the house while Wells was in Florida, was wounded in the scuffle.

News of World in Brief

New Type Rocket Being Built By Communists, Briton Says

LONDON (AP)—The British government says the Soviet Union is developing a nuclear-headed rocket that can climb more than 100 miles into space at speeds of more than 5,000 miles an hour.

To prevent possible attack by such weapons, Defense Minister Duncan Sandys told the House of Commons Wednesday, Britain must be prepared to meet it with devastating retaliation.

After hearing Sandys' report, the House voted 302-243 in support of the month-old Macmillan government's defense policies. The vote followed party lines. An opposition Laborite motion to censure the government charged waste and mismanagement.

Warning that this country might "soon be open to attack by ballistic rockets," Sandys said:

"There is every reason to believe the Russians have been developing a much enlarged version of the German V2 rocket but with the enormous difference that it will carry a nuclear warhead, and with a range sufficient to reach Britain from bases within Soviet-controlled territory."

Sandys said he is confident a defense can be provided against weapons of the type he described, but added "it would be absurd to pretend" such defense measures could be evolved quickly.

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The newspaper Al Akhbar rebuked the Soviet Union today for submitting its Middle East peace plan to the Western powers and not to the United Nations or the states of the Middle East. "Does this mean that Russia has submitted her plan just because America has formulated a scheme for the defense of the Middle East?" Akhbar asked.

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Jordanians celebrated today the end of their 1948 treaty of alliance with Britain. A communique, Wednesday night by Jordan and British officials, announced agreement to terminate the alliance by March 1, if possible, "and in any case not later than April 1."

HONG KONG (AP)—Twenty more bodies were found today in the blackened ruins of a four-story block of tenements in Kowloon, boosting Wednesday's fire death toll to 51. Seven persons still were missing.

BORGOMANERO, Italy (AP)—Piero Preti, 49-year-old laborer, was dismissed from a mental asylum 9 days ago with the following notation: "A quiet man, well oriented for the future. Dismissed upon request of his wife." Wednesday Preti hammered his wife and their 9-year-old son to death and then quietly surrendered to the police.

ATHENS (AP) — Streets were deserted all over Greece during the noon hour today. Shops and offices closed, traffic came to a standstill and workers downed tools in "silent protest" against Britain's refusal to grant Cypriots the right of self-determination.

BUDAPEST (AP)—Hungary's Communist regime admitted today that anti-Red rebels still control the town of Toemoerkeny, nearly 3½ months after the Russian Army attacked Budapest to smash the October revolt. There was no mention of any fighting.

Pair of Soldiers Hanged by Army

FT. LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP)—The Army hanged two soldiers early today for separate slayings almost four years ago in Germany and North Carolina.

They were Winford D. Moore, Virginia Beach, Va., and Thomas J. Edwards, Ardmore, Okla., both 23 years old.

A general court-martial at Ft. Bragg, N. C., sentenced Moore to death after convicting him of slaying Charles Pettit, a cab driver, on June 30, 1953. Pettit was slain in the course of a robbery.

News of World in Brief

New Type Rocket Being Built By Communists, Briton Says

LONDON (AP)—The British government says the Soviet Union is developing a nuclear-headed rocket that can climb more than 100 miles into space at speeds of more than 5,000 miles an hour.

To prevent possible attack by such weapons, Defense Minister Duncan Sandys told the House of Commons Wednesday, Britain must be prepared to meet it with devastating retaliation.

After hearing Sandys' report, the House voted 302-243 in support of the month-old Macmillan government's defense policies. The vote followed party lines. An opposition Laborite motion to censure the government charged waste and mismanagement.

Warning that this country might "soon be open to attack by ballistic rockets," Sandys said:

"There is every reason to believe the Russians have been developing a much enlarged version of the German V2 rocket but with the enormous difference that it will carry a nuclear warhead, and with a range sufficient to reach Britain from bases within Soviet-controlled territory."

Sandys said he is confident a defense can be provided against weapons of the type he described, but added "it would be absurd to pretend" such defense measures could be evolved quickly.

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The newspaper Al Akhbar rebuked the Soviet Union today for submitting its Middle East peace plan to the Western powers and not to the United Nations or the states of the Middle East. "Does this mean that Russia has submitted her plan just because America has formulated a scheme for the defense of the Middle East?" Akhbar asked.

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Jordanians celebrated today the end of their 1948 treaty of alliance with Britain. A communique, Wednesday night by Jordan and British officials, announced agreement to terminate the alliance by March 1, if possible, "and in any case not later than April 1."

HONG KONG (AP)—Twenty more bodies were found today in the blackened ruins of a four-story block of tenements in Kowloon, boosting Wednesday's fire death toll to 51. Seven persons still were missing.

BORGOMANERO, Italy (AP)—Piero Preti, 49-year-old laborer, was dismissed from a mental asylum 9 days ago with the following notation: "A quiet man, well oriented for the future. Dismissed upon request of his wife." Wednesday Preti hammered his wife and their 9-year-old son to death and then quietly surrendered to the police.

ATHENS (AP) — Streets were deserted all over Greece during the noon hour today. Shops and offices closed, traffic came to a standstill and workers downed tools in "silent protest" against Britain's refusal to grant Cypriots the right of self-determination.

BUDAPEST (AP)—Hungary's Communist regime admitted today that anti-Red rebels still control the town of Toemoerkeny, nearly 3½ months after the Russian Army attacked Budapest to smash the October revolt. There was no mention of any fighting.

Senate Panel Softens Troop Use Statement

Administration Sees President Getting Authority He Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Democratic revision of President Eisenhower's Middle East resolution had tentative administration approval today.

Though Senate action and further House consideration still are necessary, Eisenhower appeared assured of strong congressional backing for military and economic steps to resist Communist inroads there if necessary.

In Thomasville, Ga., White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said the revision "calls for a little further study" by both Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles, with whom the vacationing President talked by phone.

"But both believe," he added, "the language is designed to give the President the authority he asked for."

* * *

AFTER REVISING the resolution, the two committees approved it 20-8, and recommended its adoption by the Senate.

The House, making no major change in the resolution Eisenhower originally requested, already has passed it 355-61. Any Senate changes still would have to be considered by the House.

The House language would "authorize" the President to use troops to defend victims of Communist aggression who request aid. The Senate committees revised it to say that "if the President determines" such a step is necessary "the United States is prepared" to use troops for that purpose.

The whole battle in the committee centered around the constitutional question of whether Congress can authorize the President to use U. S. troops, an authority many contended he already has as commander in chief under the Constitution.

The amendment approved by the Senate committee, in lieu of authorizing the President to take the actions he deems necessary, says:

"The United States regards as vital to the national interest and world peace the preservation of the independence and integrity of the nations of the Middle East.

"To this end, if the President determines the necessity thereof, the United States is prepared to use armed forces to assist any nation or group of nations requesting assistance against armed aggression from any country controlled by international communism: proving that such employment shall be consonant with the treaty obligations of the United States and with the charter of the United Nations."

* * *

AS APPROVED by the House the resolution:

1. Authorizes the President to employ U. S. armed forces to assist any Middle East nations requesting assistance from aggression by international communism.

2. Authorizes him to spend up to $200 million in available foreign aid funds in his discretion until June 30 to bolster military defenses of such nations and give them economic assistance where needed.

The resolution approved by the joint committee retains this spending authority with the provision that before the President spends any of the $200 million he notify congressional committees 15 days in advance into which countries it will be channeled.

Pair of Soldiers Hanged by Army

FT. LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP)—The Army hanged two soldiers early today for separate slayings almost four years ago in Germany and North Carolina.

Edwards was convicted of the slaying of a German girl at Kitzinen, Germany, in March 1953.

Army Pack Mules Given 'Discharges'

FT. CARSON, Colo. (AP) — They have made civilians of the Army's last pack mules.

The 136 mules making up the Army's last two pack outfits were sold Wednesday for from $10 to $20 each.

It was a sad parting. While a group of veteran Army muleskinners looked on unhappily, the mules kicked up dust and some of them refused for a time to be herded into trucks for the ride to new homes in several Western states. There were 47 buyers, most of them ranchers.

OSU 'Browsing' Course Draws Top Students

COLUMBUS (AP)—If there is anything that comes close to a college student's dream, it's a new course at Ohio State University.

Picture this:

No regular schedule of lectures.

Students pick their own instructors and decide what questions will be discussed.

As in all good things, there are certain restrictions. The students have to be:

1. Freshmen.
2. Brainy.

Prof. Don L. Demorest of the department of romance languages calls it a "browsing" course. The name, by the way, is "Arts Survey 402."

There are 20 students in the course now, says Dr. Demorest, all of them among the cream of the academic crop. Invited to enroll after one quarter's work at Ohio State, the students are selected on the basis of high school records and ratings, university tests and first-quarter grades.

The course aims at giving bright students "broad backgrounds which potential leaders should have," Dr. Demorest said.

Tires are Missing From Car Loaned Coe, Police Told

Robert Estep, 1016 East Temple Street, reported to police late Wednesday that two white sidewall tires, which were in the boot of his automobile when he loaned it to Gerald (Sleepy) Coe the day before Coe was arrested in Greenfield for burglarizing a South Charleston store, were missing when he got his car back.

Coe and Hazel Snow, Xenia, were taken into custody by the Greenfield police Tuesday night. Police said loot from the South Charleston store was found in their possession.

They are now being held for prosecution in South Charleston.

Coe had been making his home with Estep, it seems.

Stassen Tipped For Pennsy Race

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times said today that Harold E. Stassen will leave his White House disarmament post early next year to campaign for the governorship of Pennsylvania.

A Washington dispatch to the newspaper added that friends of Stassen said Wednesday the former governor of Minnesota and former president of the University of Pennsylvania has told President Eisenhower of his plan to resign.

The friends were quoted as adding that the President agreed that Stassen should continue with his disarmament negotiations in the United Nations.

Heart Sunday Canvass Plans Now Take Form

Key workers were getting ready this Valentine's Day for Heart Sunday, Feb. 24, when canvassers will cover the County collecting cash for research and treatment of heart disease.

On Heart Sunday, an army of key workers and general campaigners will spend the hours between 1 and 3 p. m. in an attempt to canvass every home in the county in search of funds.

Heart disease caused 160 deaths in Fayette County last year, Miss Marian Moore, general chairman, reminded in announcing the campaign Nationally, it caused 53 per cent of all deaths — 30 percent of those under 65—she said.

* * *

ONE OUT of every 16 people suffers from the disease, she added, pointing out that that would amount to around 1,500 in Washington C. H. and Fayette County.

"We gained much more knowledge in the past 30 years than we did in the 30 before that," she went on, but she added: "there is still a great deal that is not understood about the cure and the very nature of many heart ailments."

* * *

MISS MOORE observed that 75 per cent of all money collected here will stay right in this area, while only the remaining 25 per cent will go on to national headquarters.

KEY WORKERS for Heart Sunday were selected at a campaign meeting in the Washington Hotel Monday night. They are:

State School Building Fund Plan Studied

COLUMBUS (AP)—A plan for distributing state bond issue money for construction of classrooms in needy school districts got its first hearing in a Senate committee Wednesday.

The hearing was taken up largely by an explanation from Heller & Associates of Cleveland. They worked out the plan on the basis of a six-month survey conducted for the State Board of Education.

But Sen. Raymond E. Hildebrand, Toledo Republican, questioned immediately a provision in the plan that architects for buildings to be constructed in needy areas be hired by the state board and that the state board supervise construction.

"That means," Hildebrand said, "that the Legislature would give the state board a blank check to construct buildings and give the local boards of education no voice in deciding what is to be built."

The report estimates 9,700 classrooms will be needed in Ohio by Ohio by 1961 at a total cost of $324 million. About $116 million of this spending would be in needy districts, but the needy districts would be able to raise about $66 million of the amount. The classroom need is based on an estimated increase of 350,000 in Ohio's school population by 1961.

The state board has endorsed the Heller report. The bill would put it in effect. Stout opposition is expected, however, from the Ohio Education Assn., which supports a leasing arrangement. Another hearing is due next week.

Layoff Benefits Asked in Measure

COLUMBUS (AP)—A proposal to legalize supplemental layoff benefits in Ohio got its first hearing in an Ohio House committee Wednesday night.

The bill seeks to permit supplemental payments from employers to laid-off workers in addition to state unemployment compensation. A provision says that the combined payments must not exceed 65 per cent of a worker's normal take-home pay.

The bill increases from two to four the allowable number of dependents for whom a laid - off worker may collect state benefits a $3 a week.

Special Meeting Held in Circleville

WHS Asked To Stay In SCO If Enlarged

The Athletic Board of Washington C. H. High School today has under consideration the possibility of joining one of two new athletic leagues one of which, if organization efforts pan out, would be an enlarged South Central Ohio League.

This complex situation developed Wednesday night at a special meeting in Circleville. At the meeting, called by J. Wray Henry, principal of Circleville High School, were representatives of the tottering South Central Ohio League and V. J. Ullman, executive head of southwestern school district of Franklin County, which includes three high schools in rapidly growing areas around Columbus.

Washington C. H. High School was represented by Supt. W. A. Smith, Prin. John Trace and Coach Fred Domenico.

The other four schools in the SCO —Wilmington, Greenfield, Hillsboro and Circleville — were represented at the meeting by either their superintendents or high school principals and members of their coaching staffs.

Although Washington C. H. High School has served notice that it intends to withdraw from the SCO to join the Mid-Eight League, it was represented at the meeting because withdrawal is not scheduled until after completion of the 1958 sports schedules. Thus, technically, Washington C. H. High School will remain in the SCO until 1959.

Prin. Trace is still secretary of the SCO and served in that capacity at Wednesday night's special meeting.

The primary purpose of the meeting, it was stated flatly was to preserve the old South Central Ohio League through expansion to an eight-school circuit.

* * *

REPRESENTATIVES of four of the SCO schools—those from Washington C. H. remaining silent — extended an invitation to come into the SCO to Franklin Heights and another as-yet-unnamed school in the district to be build southwest of Columbus by 1959. Supt. Ullman of the district accepted for the school yet to be built and for the Franklin Heights school after he and the school's athletic board had discussed the proposition.

The possibility of Grove City entering the proposed expanded SCO League was mentioned only casually, although this is the third school in the district with Franklin Heights and the unbuilt new school represented by Ullman.

(Rumors have had it that Grove City was being considered for the eighth school in the SCO if plans to expand it are successful.)

Franklin Heights is a suburb west of Columbus between the CCC Highway and W. Broad St. It has built up only within the last three or four years.

* * *

WASHINGTON C. H. High School admittedly is in a peculiar position —still a member of the SCO while on the verge of joining the Mid-Eight. The official acceptance of the Mid-Eight invitation is not due until around March 15.

However, it was made plain at the meeting that the other four schools in the SCO want Washington C. H. High School to remain in the league. The delegation from here took no position at that time, but Prin. Trace admitted later that the proposition would be given thorough study.

Prin. Trace declined to elaborate on possibilities, other than to repeat that an eight-school league is now considered virtually essential to a complete athletic program for high schools in this area.

It also has been noted that during the years when efforts were made to expand the SCO, two of the three schools in southwestern Franklin County were non-existant and the enrollment of the third, at Grove City, was far less than it is now.

Schools in the Mid-Eight League, which WHS has signified intentions of joining. are Gahanna, Grove City, Groveport, Hilliards, London, Marysville and Westerville. Washington C. H. High School would make the eighth on the circuit.

Health Commissioner

ed that the work he has been doing in organization in the district is now beginning to bear fruit and he sees gratifying results for the future. His salary here is $13,000 a year.

* * *

HE ASSERTED that he had no idea when there would be any further development with reference to the offer he was told unofficially would be made to him and could make no further statements until there were such developments and the board here and in the other counties of this district also had complete information.

Dr. Scott, who came here from Hickory, N. C., where he directed health work in three counties, took over the position in this district in December 1955, some months after Dr. N. A. Dyer, whom he succeeded, had resigned the health commissionership here to accept a position in Morgantown, W. Va.

His work in this district, members of the local health board state, has been very satisfactory.

Army Pack Mules Given 'Discharges'

FT. CARSON, Colo. (AP) — They have made civilians of the Army's last pack mules.

The 136 mules making up the Army's last two pack outfits were sold Wednesday for from $10 to $[illegible] each.

It was a sad parting. While a group of veteran Army muleskinners looked on unhappily, the mules kicked up dust and some of them refused for a time to be herded into trucks for the ride to new homes in several Western states. There were 47 buyers, most of them ranchers.

Roy A. Benson, 618 Rawlings St., reported to police late Wednesday that some one had removed a glass from a rear porch window, forced the kitchen door and burglarized his home. He said $22 was stolen from a cash box.

The refrigerator door was found standing open, but nothing was missed. So far as reported, nothing else in the house was stolen.

Police are investigating.

OSU 'Browsing' Course Draws Top Students

COLUMBUS (AP)—If there is anything that comes close to a college student's dream it's a new course at Ohio State University.

Picture this:

No regular schedule of lectures.

Students pick their own instructors and decide what questions will be discussed.

As in all good things, there are certain restrictions. The students have to be:

1. Freshmen.
2. Brainy.

Prof. Don L. Demorest of the department of romance languages calls it a "browsing" course. The name, by the way, is "Arts Survey 402."

There are 20 students in the course now, says Dr. Demorest, all of them among the cream of the academic crop. Invited to enroll after one quarter's work at Ohio State, the students are selected on the basis of high school records and ratings, university tests and first-quarter grades.

The course aims at giving bright students "broad backgrounds which potential leaders should have," Dr. Demorest said.

Tires are Missing From Car Loaned Coe, Police Told

Robert Estep, 1016 East Temple Street, reported to police late Wednesday that two white sidewall tires, which were in the boot of his automobile when he loaned it to Gerald (Sleepy) Coe the day before Coe was arrested in Greenfield for burglarizing a South Charleston store, were missing when he got his car back.

Coe and Hazel Snow, Xenia, were taken into custody by the Greenfield police Tuesday night. Police said loot from the South Charleston store was found in their possession.

They are now being held for prosecution in South Charleston.

Coe had been making his home with Estep, it seems.

Stassen Tipped For Pennsy Race

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times said today that Harold E. Stassen will leave his White House disarmament post early next year to campaign for the governorship of Pennsylvania.

A Washington dispatch to the newspaper added that friends of Stassen said Wednesday the former governor of Minnesota and former president of the University of Pennsylvania has told President Eisenhower of his plan to resign.

The friends were quoted as adding that the President agreed that Stassen should continue with his disarmament negotiations in the United Nations

Heart Sunday Canvass Plans Now Take Form

Key workers were getting ready this Valentine's Day for Heart Sunday, Feb. 24, when canvassers will cover the County collecting cash for research and treatment of heart disease.

On Heart Sunday, an army of key workers and general campaigners will spend the hours between 1 and 3 p. m. in an attempt to canvass every home in the county in search of funds.

Heart disease caused 160 deaths in Fayette County last year, Miss Marian Moore, general chairman, reminded in announcing the campaign Nationally, it caused 53 per cent of all deaths — 30 percent of those under 65—she said.

* * *

ONE OUT of every 16 people suffers from the disease, she added, pointing out that that would amount to around 1,500 in Washington C. H. and Fayette County.

"We gained much more knowledge in the past 30 years than we did in the 30 before that," she went on, but she added: "there is still a great deal that is not understood about the cure and the very nature of many heart ailments."

* * *

MISS MOORE observed that 75 per cent of all money collected here will stay right in this area, while only the remaining 25 per cent will go on to national headquarters.

* * *

KEY WORKERS for Heart Sunday were selected at a campaign meeting in the Washington Hotel Monday night. They are:

State School Building Fund Plan Studied

COLUMBUS (AP)—A plan for distributing state bond issue money for construction of classrooms in needy school districts got its first hearing in a Senate committee Wednesday.

The hearing was taken up largely by an explanation from Heller & Associates of Cleveland. They worked out the plan on the basis of a six-month survey conducted for the State Board of Education.

But Sen. Raymond E. Hildebrand, Toledo Republican, questioned immediately a provision in the plan that architects for buildings to be constructed in needy areas be hired by the state board and that the state board supervise construction.

"That means," Hildebrand said, "that the Legislature would give the state board a blank check to construct buildings and give the local boards of education no voice in deciding what is to be built."

The report estimates 9,700 classrooms will be needed in Ohio by Ohio by 1961 at a total cost of $324 million. About $116 million of this spending would be in needy districts, but the needy districts would be able to raise about $66 million of the amount. The classroom need is based on an estimated increase of 350,000 in Ohio's school population by 1961.

The state board has endorsed the Heller report. The bill would put it in effect. Stout opposition is expected, however, from the Ohio Education Assn., which supports a leasing arrangement. Another hearing is due next week.

Layoff Benefits Asked in Measure

COLUMBUS (AP)—A proposal to legalize supplemental layoff benefits in Ohio got its first hearing in an Ohio House committee Wednesday night.

The bill seeks to permit supplemental payments from employers to laid-off workers in addition to state unemployment compensation. A provision says that the combined payments must not exceed 65 per cent of a worker's normal take-home pay.

The bill increases from two to four the allowable number of dependents for whom a laid - off worker may collect state benefits a $3 a week.

Special Meeting Held in Circleville

WHS Asked To Stay In SCO If Enlarged

The Athletic Board of Washington C. H. High School today has under consideration the possibility of joining one of two new athletic leagues one of which, if organization efforts pan out, would be an enlarged South Central Ohio League.

This complex situation developed Wednesday night at a special meeting in Circleville. At the meeting, called by J. Wray Henry, principal of Circleville High School, were representatives of the tottering South Central Ohio League and V. J. Ullman, executive head of southwestern school district of Franklin County, which includes three high schools in rapidly growing areas around Columbus.

Washington C. H. High School was represented by Supt. W. A. Smith, Prin. John Trace and Coach Fred Domenico.

The other four schools in the SCO —Wilmington, Greenfield, Hillsboro and Circleville — were represented at the meeting by either their superintendents or high school principals and members of their coaching staffs.

Although Washington C. H. High School has served notice that it intends to withdraw from the SCO to join the Mid-Eight League, it was represented at the meeting because withdrawal is not scheduled until after completion of the 1958 sports schedules. Thus, technically, Washington C. H. High School will remain in the SCO until 1959.

Prin. Trace is still secretary of the SCO and served in that capacity at Wednesday night's special meeting.

The primary purpose of the meeting, it was stated flatly was to preserve the old South Central Ohio League through expansion to an eight-school circuit.

* * *

REPRESENTATIVES of four of the SCO schools—those from Washington C. H. remaining silent — extended an invitation to come into the SCO to Franklin Heights and another as-yet-unnamed school in the district to be build southwest of Columbus by 1959. Supt. Ullman of the district accepted for the school yet to be built and for the Franklin Heights school after he and the school's athletic board had discussed the proposition.

The possibility of Grove City entering the proposed expanded SCO League was mentioned only casually, although this is the third school in the district with Franklin Heights and the unbuilt new school represented by Ullman.

(Rumors have had it that Grove City was being considered for the eighth school in the SCO if plans to expand it are successful.)

Franklin Heights is a suburb west of Columbus between the CCC Highway and W. Broad St. It has built up only within the last three or four years.

* * *

WASHINGTON C. H. High School admittedly is in a peculiar position —still a member of the SCO while on the verge of joining the Mid-Eight. The official acceptance of the Mid-Eight invitation is not due until around March 15.

However, it was made plain at the meeting that the other four schools in the SCO want Washington C. H. High School to remain in the league. The delegation from here took no position at that time, but Prin. Trace admitted later that the proposition would be given thorough study.

Prin. Trace declined to elaborate on possibilities, other than to repeat that an eight-school league is now considered virtually essential to a complete athletic program for high schools in this area.

It also has been noted that during the years when efforts were made to expand the SCO, two of the three schools in southwestern Franklin County were non-existant and the enrollment of the third, at Grove City, was far less than it is now.

Schools in the Mid-Eight League, which WHS has signified intentions of joining. are Gahanna, Grove City,Groveport, Hilliards, London, Marysville and Westerville. Washington C. H. High School would make the eighth on the circuit.

Health Commissioner

ed that the work he has been doing in organization in the district is now beginning to bear fruit and he sees gratifying results for the future. His salary here is $13,000 a year.

* * *

HE ASSERTED that he had no idea when there would be any further development with reference to the offer he was told unofficially would be made to him and could make no further statements until there were such developments and the board here and in the other counties of this district also had complete information.

Dr. Scott, who came here from Hickory, N. C., where he directed health work in three counties, took over the position in this district in December 1955, some months after Dr. N. A. Dyer, whom he succeeded, had resigned the health commissionership here to accept a position in Morgantown, W. Va.

His work in this district, members of the local health board state, has been very satisfactory.

WASHINGTON'S LARGEST INDEPENDENT SUPER MARKET

What Will Happen In 1957 To Housing Plans?

From all the new houses constructed and others being planned around Washington C. H. and over Fayette County, it would appear that this locality has been keeping up fairly well with the building splurge of the past few years. We hope it will continue to do so.

The general housing outlook for 1957 seems somewhat mixed. If easier methods can be worked out for financing without contributing further toward inflationary trends, for veterans housing in particular, there may be less of a sharp cutback in building this year than has been predicted by some people.

It is reported that the federal housing administrator has made an optimistic prediction of one and one - tenth million starts on buildings of homes this year.

The U. S. Department of Commerce and heads of several major construction products firms place the figure at 1 million starts in 1957, down 10 per cent from 1956. But Roy Wenzlick, real estate analyst and consultant, told the Northeastern Retail Lumbermen's Association on Jan. 28 that 1957 would see only 900,000 starts.

Some housing experts look upon a rate of 1 million to 1.1 million starts a year as normal. The two recent peak years were 1950 and 1955. There were 1.3 million housing starts in the latter years. But the 1.1 million starts in 1956 was actually higher than the 1951 - 1954 average.

Democrats in Congress appear cool to President Eisenhower's Budget Message request that the interest rate on veterans' housing loans be raised to 5 per cent from the present 4½ per cent. As recently as last autumn the Veterans Administration was opposing such a move. But Ralph H. Stone, chief V. A. benefits director, on Jan. 24 told the House Veterans' Committee that veterans were being squeezed out of the market. All of this situation needs careful analysis. Anything that should develop more inflation has a dangerous edge.

Stone said that after the Federal Housing Administration raised the interest rate on F.H.A.-insured mortgages to 5 per cent last Dec. 4, there was a "sharp" drop in V. A. appraisal requests. Stone said "the conclusion seems unavoidable" that if the V. A. housing interest rate were not raised "without some alternative support to the veterans' housing market," the World War II veterans' program would be "phased out" long before mid - 1958, the scheduled expiration date.

"Alternative support" to the veterans' market seems to be what some members of Congress have in mind. Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) on Jan. 17 introduced a bill that would make available "25 per cent of the national service life insurance fund for direct veterans home loans at 4½ per cent interest." This would put into the veterans' market a fresh supply of credit amounting to about $1.4 billion. Bills similar to Johnson's have been offered in the House by Chairman Olin E. Teague (Tex.) of the Veterans' Committee and Rep. Wright Patman (Tex.).

Johnson's bill would also increase the authorized V. A. mortgage limit from $10,000 to $14,000. "Experts in the field assert that the lack of money is not the only limiting factor," Johnson said in introducing the bill. "They say that the present mortgage limit of $10,000 has a dampening effect."

The staff of the senate housing subcommittee on Jan. 24 reported that middle-income families were being priced out of the housing market. It defined middle-income families as those with annual incomes running from $3,325 to $5,638, with a median of $4,422.

Town-and-Country Design Seen in State Legislation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A town-and-country "design for living"—one which would permit both Ohio's mushrooming cities and their satellite communities to breathe comfortably—is in the Ohio legislative mill.

It is a constitutional amendment, offered by four House members, to simplify the procedure by which a sort of super county government could take over such vital mass services as fire and police protection and the furnishing of water and sewer services.

Its sponsors are Reps. Kenneth Berry (R - Coshocton), John J. Chester Jr. (R - Franklin) and Frances McGovern (D-Summit). They see their proposal—which would be subject to a final vote of the people—as a means to upgrade the quality of services in metropolitan areas.

They want to let a proposed county-charter area approve its charter — provided all municipalities involved are willing—by a simply majority vote of all electors casting ballots.

If backers of county-wide government wanted it to have exclusive rights in any field of service, they would have to submit the proposal and get a majority of:

1. Voters in the county.
2. Voters in the county's largest municipality, and
3. Voters in the county outside the biggest municipality.

County-wide government of this type has long been permitted by the Ohio constitution, but so far no county has adopted it. Municipal officials apparently have felt the chances of getting complete agreement of all communities concerned on all issues involved would be almost impossible.

Due for introduction soon is another — and similar — proposal which would permit several municipalities to join in a borough-type government like the one which now renders major services to the five boroughs of New York City.

Another 29 bills were offered in the Legislature Wednesday. One would permit Ohio to enter into reciprocal agreements with other states on fishing licenses.

Another, to be introduced today before the Legislature winds up its sixth work week, would shrink the size of the State Board of Education from 23 members to seven and make it an appointive instead of an elective board.

Rep. James F. McCaffery (D-Cuyahoga) said he will ask the Legislature to change the school board setup to make its members appointees of the governor. Members now are elected from each of Ohio's 23 congressional districts. He will propose $12,000 salaries. Members now get a top of $240 a year.

The fishing proposal came from Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese (D-Cuyahoga). It would let Ohio enter into reciprocal agreements similar to those under which Ohio honors the auto licenses of other states and vice versa.

The Senate confirmed a number of appointments by Gov. C. William O'Neill including those of Charles J. Chastang of Columbus as a member of the Ohio Turnpike Commission; Herbert B. Eagon, Delaware County, director of natural resources; James R. Hay, Columbus, agriculture director; Oliver P. Bolton, Mentor, commerce director, and Everett H. Krueger Jr. of Cleveland, public utilities commissioner.

Diet and Health — Medical Diary Helps Diagnosis of Illness

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Diaries make interesting reading. And sometimes they can be extremely valuable to a physician when he is seeking the cause of a particular illness.

If your child has migraine headaches, for example, it might be a good idea to keep a diary about him. It doesn't have to be the colorful day-by-day report we might find in the diary of a high school teenager, but keep an account of all his headaches.

Useful Information

Jot down a description of the symptoms and how long the attack lasts. Note also any factors which might precipitate the attack.

This is information which usually is difficult for a doctor to obtain from a youngster. It may be very helpful in prescribing treatment.

Generally, though, about the best way of relieving childhood attacks of migraine is by the simple use of acetylsalicylic acid.

Sounds like pretty potent stuff, doesn't it? Actually, you've probably got a lot of it in your home this very minute. Acetylsalicylic acid is a fancy name for plain aspirin.

Aspirin should be given early in the attack. If the child already has started vomiting you can get suppositories containing acetylsalicylic acid.

In severe cases, your doctor might also recommend rectal suppositories of a combination of caffeine and ergotamine tartrate.

If the youngster has any trouble with his eyes, ears, nose or throat, these, of course, should be corrected.

Parental Pressure

There's something else you parents can do, too. If your child has migraine headaches you may be exerting too much parental pressure on him. Frequently, this is the case. Don't be too demanding in his school work.

And don't, above all, insist that he carry on a full schedule of activities such as music lessons and the like outside of school if he suffers from migraine. After all, a child can do only so much.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

M. S.: What can be done to decrease or remove a double chin?

Answer: A general loss in weight might be helpful. If the weight is normal, plastic surgery might be necessary to overcome the condition. As a general rule, massage is not of much value.

He Apologizes to Fishermen

By Hal Boyle

ANDROS TOWN, Bahamas (AP)—For years I have secretly felt that a fisherman was like a professional gambler who plays poker for keeps with a group of kindergarten kids.

Fishing seemed unfair to me. Any man ought to be able to outsmart anything dumb enough to spend its life under water. Or so I thought.

The Andros Yacht Club here has become a mecca for anglers of three continents seeking everything from delicate needlefish to Blue Marlins big enough to pull a Cadillac.

After listening to a lot of their tall yarns about record catches, I ventured the opinion that fishing was basically a childish sport.

"As a matter of fact," I said, "I set a record myself when I was only 10 years old. I caught three fish in two minutes in Troost Lake in Kansas City, Mo., without even using a hook."

"What did you use?" asked a big game fisherman.

"A piece of raw liver and a cheesecloth net."

"How big were the fish?"

"The largest was about three inches," I admitted. "But the principle's the same whether you're after a minnow or a whale. All fish are dumb. What chance have they got, once you learn their weakness?"

All the fishermen moved silently away from me down to the other end of the bar as if I had broken out with smallpox. All, that is, except Dave Roberts, outdoor editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer, who is a tolerant man.

"Tomorrow," he said, "you're going bonefishing with me. The sport has changed a little since you were 10."

I agreed. The next morning as Joe, our native guide, put-putted us up Fresh Creek I began looking around the bottom of the boat for bones.

"What kind of bones do we use for bait?" I asked.

Dave explained that bonefish were among the fastest and fightingest of game fish, and that an honest sportsman preferred to catch them on a light rod with an artificial fly. They are called "the phantoms of the flats."

We poled into the shallows, and Dave said, "Now we get out and walk."

"In the water?" I asked.

"On top of it, if you can," answered Dave mildly.

We started wading, and after about a mile of this I began puffing.

Dave offered to let me flick out a few flies, but by then I was so exhausted I couldn't have hurled an underweight mosquito three feet.

A moment later Joe scanned what looked like just another ripple to me and murmured, "not bonefish — barracuda or small shark."

Barracuda? Shark? I did a 10-foot standing broadjump and landed in the middle of the boat. Joe explained there was no danger, that the fish—shark or barracuda—was more afraid of me than I was of him.

After casting a bit from the boat, we started home empty-handed. "Phantoms of the flats" indeed. Joe and Dave had seen maybe 20 bonefish. I saw not one.

"Dave," I told him humbly, "I apologize to you and all the fishermen in America. I also apologize to all the fish from here to Havana. Dumb? They learned more in their schools than I did in mine."

But no fish is ever going to get a chance to make a fool of me in public again.

The next one I catch will be with a knife and fork, and if it even dares look up from the plate in an appeal for justice or fair play I'll pour a whole bottle of Worcestershire sauce right square in its big, leering, blue eye.

LATE ONE NIGHT an airline stewardess came home sobbing to her roommate "That gentleman who took me out this evening," she explained, "sure shot the works on me. My, what food and wine! All he asked was my phone number so he could call me again. Then when he drove off he slipped something into my hand. I just looked to see what it was. Look! It's a brand new $100 bill." With this the hostess burst into tears once more. "It's the worst mistake I ever made," she explained. "I gave him the wrong phone number!"

What Did Not Happen in UN

By George Sokolsky

During the Korean war, Red China intervened, took over the war, defeated the United Nations Police (consisting mostly of American troops) and entered upon prolonged negotiations over prisoners of war, negotiations which are being continued to this very day.

Did the United Nations impose sanctions upon Red China? Not at all! Red China is not a member of the United Nations; therefore it could seize Tibet; it could take a chunk of territory out of Burma; it could create a sphere of influence in Nepal without suffering any consequences. It could stir up a war in Indochina and permit its territory to be used as a military base.

There is an enormous advantage in not being a member of the United Nations because then it is possible to engage in imperialist war enterprises and not suffer any consequences. Red China subsequent to these acts of imperialism conducted an active campaign to be admitted into the United Nations and has encountered considerable sympathy and support, particularly among those Afro - Asian nations which apparently favor rewarding such improprieties by permitting a country to shoot its way into the United Nations.

Furthermore, there has always been a cynical element in the State Department which prides itself on its ultra - realism and which therefore favors Red China's entrance into the United Nations on the pragmatic ground that nothing succeeds like success and the torture and murder of American citizens are routine hazards of international relations.

So, Soviet Russia, a member of the United Nations, sent an overpowering army, including tanks which rode roughshod over women and children, into Hungary to repress an uprising of the people for self - government. Never in modern times was an imperialistic action so overt, so brutal, so frank.

Did the United Nations impose economic or other sanctions upon Soviet Russia for its genocide in Hungary? Not at all! There were about 10 resolutions concerning Soviet Russia's conduct in Hungary, but Russia flouted them all and laughed at the United Nations and its pretenses at power. Dag Hammarskjold, its highest official, vished personally to go to Hungary to see what was going on, but they would not admit him. They treated him like what he is, a paid jobholder of an international debating society.

Did our State Department threaten to vote sanctions against Soviet Russia over Hungary? Do not be silly!

Apparently there was even a denial that American radio facilities were used to encourage the Hungarians to declare their independence, although the balloons could not be denied because they are demonstrable. It pays to be a strong power and in the United Nations, with a permanent seat on the Security Council and the right to veto, because then it is possible to tell anybody to go to the devil.

India went into Kashmir the way Red China went into Korea and Soviet Russia went into Hungary. The United Nations proposed a plebiscite. India rejected a plebiscite because Nehru calculated that he would lose the plebcite. Pakistan suggested a U. N. police force to hold Kashmir in escrow. Nehru rejected that, too. In Kashmir, Nehru ceases to be the man of peace, the middleman among nations, the gentle talking merchant offering the world Nirvana at a price. In Kashmir, Nehru is an imperialist, taking what he can take and sending his devil's disciple, Krishna Menon, to make a seven-hour long speech until nausea overtook that body, accustomed though it is to gargling and retching.

Did the United Nations impose economic sanctions against India for its imperialism and its rejection of United Nations resolutions? Not at all! The United Nations is silent about Kasmir. And the State Department is silent about Kashmir. And the State Department takes its policy from Chester Bowles, the erstwhile huckster who was sent to India to make the United States popular there by word and by giveaway, but who instead has become Nehru's supplementary emissary to the United States. Amazingly, he has not been restored to ambassadorial rank.

It is only against Israel that the United Nations and the State Department seek to impose sanctions perhaps as a challenge to discover whether manna will truly drop from Heaven when the Israeli have nothing to eat but the sand of the Sinai desert. It does not pay to be small and not to have oil wells and not to have blackmail powers in this current, progmatic era.

After casting a bit from the boat, we started home empty-handed. "Phantoms of the flats" indeed. Joe and Dave had seen maybe 20 bonefish. I saw not one.

"Dave," I told him humbly. "I apologize to you and all the fishermen in America. I also apologize to all the fish from here to Havana. Dumb? They learned more in their schools than I did in mine."

But no fish is ever going to get a chance to make a fool of me in public again.

The next one I catch will be with a knife and fork, and if it even dares look up from the plate in an appeal for justice or fair play I'll pour a whole bottle of Worcestershire sauce right square in its big, leering, blue eye.

Prison Inmates Urge 'Open House'

The prisoners replied: "Let's have an open house."

Try and Stop Me

LATE ONE NIGHT an airline stewardess came home sobbing to her roommate "That gentleman who took me out this evening," she explained, "sure shot the works on me. My, what food and wine! All he asked was my phone number so he could call me again. Then when he drove off he slipped something into my hand. I just looked to see what it was. Look! It's a brand new $100 bill." With this the hostess burst into tears once more. "It's the worst mistake I ever made," she explained. "I gave him the wrong phone number!"

Franklin D. Roosevelt told this story on himself at many a dinner party: A son introduced the new deacon to his father, who was both slightly deaf and a staunch Republican. "Pa," said the son, "here's our new deacon." "New DEALER?" boomed Pa. "No, new deacon," repeated the son. "He's a son of a bishop." That pleased Pa, who agreed happily, "They all are."

What Did Not Happen in UN

By George Sokolsky

During the Korean war, Red China intervened, took over the war, defeated the United Nations Police (consisting mostly of American troops) and entered upon prolonged negotiations over prisoners of war, negotiations which are being continued to this very day.

Did the United Nations impose sanctions upon Red China? Not at all! Red China is not a member of the United Nations; therefore it could seize Tibet; it could take a chunk of territory out of Burma; it could create a sphere of influence in Nepal without suffering any consequences. It could stir up a war in Indochina and permit its territory to be used as a military base.

There is an enormous advantage in not being a member of the United Nations because then it is possible to engage in imperialist war enterprises and not suffer any consequences. Red China subsequent to these acts of imperialism conducted an active campaign to be admitted into the United Nations and has encountered considerable sympathy and support, particularly among those Afro - Asian nations which apparently favor rewarding such improprieties by permitting a country to shoot its way into the United Nations.

Furthermore, there has always been a cynical element in the State Department which prides itself on its ultra - realism and which therefore favors Red China's entrance into the United Nations on the pragmatic ground that nothing succeeds like success and the torture and murder of American citizens are routine hazards of international relations.

So, Soviet Russia, a member of the United Nations, sent an overpowering army, including tanks which rode roughshod over women and children, into Hungary to repress an uprising of the people for self - government. Never in modern times was an imperialistic action so overt, so brutal, so frank.

Did the United Nations impose economic or other sanctions upon Soviet Russia for its genocide in Hungary? Not at all! There were about 10 resolutions concerning Soviet Russia's conduct in Hungary, but Russia flouted them all and laughed at the United Nations and its pretenses at power. Dag Hammarskjold, its highest official, vished personally to go to Hungary to see what was going on, but they would not admit him. They treated him like what he is, a paid jobholder of an international debating society.

Did our State Department threaten to vote sanctions against Soviet Russia over Hungary? Do not be silly!

Apparently there was even a denial that American radio facilities were used to encourage the Hungarians to declare their independence, although the balloons could not be denied because they are demonstrable. It pays to be a strong power and in the United Nations, with a permanent seat on the Security Council and the right to veto, because then it is possible to tell anybody to go to the devil

India, went into Kashmir the way Red China went into Korea and Soviet Russia went into Hungary. The United Nations proposed a plebiscite. India rejected a plebiscite because Nehru calculated that he would lose the plebcite. Pakistan suggested a U. N. police force to hold Kashmir in escrow. Nehru rejected that, too. In Kashmir, Nehru ceases to be the man of peace, the middleman among nations, the gentle talking merchant offering the world Nirvana at a price. In Kashmir, Nehru is an imperialist, taking what he can take and sending his devil's disciple, Krishna Menon, to make a seven-hour long speech until nausea overtook that body, accustomed though it is to gargling and retching.

Did the United Nations impose economic sanctions against India for its imperialism and its rejection of United Nations resolutions? Not at all! The United Nations is silent about Kasmir. And the State Department is silent about Kashmir. And the State Department takes its policy from Chester Bowles, the erstwhile huckster who was sent to India to make the United States popular there by word and by giveaway, but who instead has become Nehru's supplementary emissary to the United States. Amazingly, he has not been restored to ambassadorial rank.

It is only against Israel that the United Nations and the State Department seek to impose sanctions perhaps as a challenge to discover whether manna will truly drop from Heaven when the Israeli have nothing to eat but the sand of the Sinai desert. It does not pay to be small and not to have oil wells and not to have blackmail powers in this current, progmatic era.

HAILED by millions of mothers, the first baby bottle created a sensation when introduced at the Great Exhibition of 1851 in London. Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

Homer C. Fortier, Ohio Avenue, although past the usual age of retirement, is still going strong as a piano tuner and repairer, and recently he started his 50th year in the profession.

During his nearly half century of work, he has tuned and repaired thousands of pianos, his work not only taking him throughout this area and other parts of Ohio, but into Kentucky as far as Paducah, and also in Indiana, Illinois, Tennessee and even in California while he was staying there.

Homer got his start as a piano tuner when a local piano dealer, realizing Homer's natural ability for such work, suggested that he go to Polk's School of Tuning, at Valparaiso Indiana, and Homer was quick to follow the advice.

The school was a good one, and when Homer came out of the school he ranked with the best, and throughout his long tuning career his services have proven so satisfactory that he repeatedly has been called upon by the same piano owners over long periods of years.

From far and wide come calls for his services, and he is kept busy looking after pianos, and by reason of his long years of experience became a skilled mechanic when repairs of a piano were necessary in addition to his tuning activities.

Homer points out that the piano will probably always be the leading musical instrument in the home and elsewhere, and that today more children are taking piano lessons than ever before, bespeaking the constant popularity of the instrument.

PHONOGRAPH CONCERT

When the first phonographs appeared on the market upward of 60 years ago, W. C. Waller, of Sedalia, was one of the first persons in this part of Ohio to buy a phonograph and numerous records, as well as recording attachments.

Waller gave phonograph concerts or entertainments not only in his home town but in various surrounding communities, charging 10 cents admission, and usually a full house was present to hear the marvelous new machine.

I remember Waller gave one of his phonograph entertainments in the Knights of Pythias Hall at Yatesville, and I as a boy, was fortunate enough to attend the extraordinary performance, and thrill to the wonders of mechanical recording and reproduction.

It was a great deal better than some of the "magic lantern shows" I had attended at the Klever School House near Yatesvilie, when a lantern, boasting a kerosene lamp to furnish illumination on the screen, was used in showing a few dozen slides of wonders outside of Fayette County.

I remember Waller had quite a variety of records, from Uncle Josh Weathersby and his funny jokes, to wonderful orchestral music. That was really something to thrill over!

But I still recall the most outstanding part of his program was a record in which he had recorded a duet sung by John Tway (father of Miss Lizzie Tway, North North St., city) and his daughter, Maude, both of whom had excellent voices and sang in the choir at Union Chapel Methodist Church in Yatesville.

The recording of the voices of Mr. Tway and daughter, was the climax of the unusual performance, and I vividly recall how everyone sat with eyes glued upon the phonograph and their ears strained to catch every sound as the two familiar voices came from the horn of the phonograph.

Then we knew that the phonograph really was a most marvelous invention. It was just as mysterious as the radio and television were when they first came into use.

FIRST ON RECORD

When officers of the Grand Lodge of Ohio Odd Fellows installed the officers of Temple Lodge No. 277 here Tuesday night, it was a distinct honor and unusual recognition for the local lodge.

In fact it was the first time in Odd Fellow history, I am informed, that officers of a subordinate lodge were installed by active officers of the Grand Lodge and Encampment of Ohio.

I am told that things are "looking up" for the Odd Fellows here, where one of the finest degrees staffs in the Odd Fellow world once attracted nation - wide attention, and was much in demand for notable gatherings of Odd Fellows.

Like several other of the secret societies, the Odd Fellows "lost out" during the general slump in the societies 25 to 30 years ago, but Temple Lodge is now attracting attention by a come - back which is interesting.

Within a short time the lodge here will install the Encampment branch of Odd Fellowship, which is another notable step on the part of the lodge.

The local lodge meets every Tuesday evening over the Carpenter Hardware Store, where the lodge has occupied quarters for the past several years.

State Employ Aid Asked in Measure

COLUMBUS (AP) — Rep. Charles W. Whalen Jr., (R-Montgomery) is sponsoring a bill providing unemployment compensation for state employes and authorizing political subdivisions to elect coverage for their workers.

He said the bill is backed by the Ohio Councils of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes.

More Land Leased by Kewanee Oil Co.

Fayette Countians Wondering When Drilling for Oil Will Start

As more and more land in Fayette County is covered by oil and gas leases to the Kewanee Oil Co. of Tulsa, Okla., speculation as to when and where the first wells will be drilled is growing.

No longer is there any question about whether there will be any wells drilled, for nearly everyone is just about convinced that with thousands of dollars invested in the leases, an effort will be made to cash in on it.

What is even more convincing—encouraging to those who have given the leases—is that thousands of acres in adjoining counties also are under lease to Kewanee.

Most recent report of Kewanee leasing activity came from Columbus yesterday. It said 11,233 acres in Pleasant and Brown Twps. in Franklin have been leased for possible test drilling.

The Franklin County land is reported to be part of an estimated 175,000 acres of land in central and southern Ohio under lease by the Tulsa firm.

A spokesman said the firm hopes that the land might prove productive, but no date has been set for any drilling operations.

Other counties in which the firm holds leases are Pickaway, Madison, Ross, Fayette and Highland.

* * *

REPRESENTATIVES of the company said most of the leases are for 10 cents an acre a year for 10 years.

Already more than 500 leases covering approximately 100,000 acres in Fayette County have been recorded at the courthouse here.

Most of the leases here were recorded in three big batches, 77 in the first, 389 in the second and 48 in the third in December and January. Since the first leases were filed, others have been recorded, usually four to a dozen at a time.

There is no pattern to the leases, either in time of recording or location. They cover farms in all parts of the county.

A similar leasing program was going on at the same time, although on a smaller scale, in Highland, Ross, Pickaway and Madison counties. There also have been some in Madison and Greene counties.

* * *

MEANWHILE, Kewanee officials maintain strict silence about the company's plans for the future.

It is known, however, that representatives of the company have been here recently—probably still are—going over titles. All of which is taken as an indication that still more leases will be recorded.

But, strange as it may seem in view of the speculation, everyone is taking the situation calmly; no one is looking forward to a big "oil boom" here and no one is" counting his chickens before they are hatched." In a word, no one has start laying plans for a big spending spree with fast and easy money from "striking oil." For the most part, Fayette Countians are viewing the future philosophically, if not skeptically, so far as oil is concerned.

27 Countries (Not Russia) Invited to U. S. Navy Show

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has invited 27 countries — not including Russia — to send warships to the first international naval review to be held in this country since 1907.

The review is scheduled for June 12 at the same place where dreadnaughts and torpedo boats from seven nations assembled for a grand review 50 years ago, the huge anchorage area of Hampton Roads, Va.

This year aircraft carriers and missile cruisers — unheard of in those days — will be among the 50 U. S. Navy ships participating. A total of 80 is expected.

The occasion is the 350th anniversary of the first permanent English settlement in America, at Jamestown, Va.

The Pentagon said the State Department extended the invitations "on behalf of the Navy, the Virginia 350th Anniversary Commission, and the port communities of Hampton, Newport News, Norfolk, Portsmouth, Virginia Beach and Warwick."

The Pentagon announcement did not list the countries. However, an announcement Tuesday night by Ben Wahrman, executive director of the international review committee, carried the names of the invited nations.

Wahrman's announcement said that because the Jamestown festival is concerned primarily with this country and because it was felt it would be an "imposition to ask any nation that did not have a direct connection to go to the expense of sending ships, the list was limited to the countries of the Americas, to those countries that participated in the exploration and settlement of the Americas" and to member nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Why Russia, which has the world's second largest navy, after the United States, did not qualify as one of the nations which "participated in the exploration of the settlement of the Americas" was not immediately clear.

Russian expeditions explored the Alaskan area near the Bering Strait in 1741, then becan settlements in "Russian America" which lasted until the United States purchased Alaska from Russia in 1867.

Brazil is a major republic of South America. It is the name also of a legendary island in the Atlantic Ocean, and the name of a town in Indiana.

This year aircraft carriers and missile cruisers — unheard of in those days — will be among the 50 U. S. Navy ships participating. A total of 80 is expected.

The occasion is the 350th anniversary of the first permanent English settlement in America, at Jamestown, Va.

The Pentagon said the State Department extended the invitations "on behalf of the Navy, the Virginia 350th Anniversary Commission, and the port communities of Hampton, Newport News, Norfolk, Portsmouth, Virginia Beach and Warwick."

The Pentagon announcement did not list the countries. However, an announcement Tuesday night by Ben Wahrman, executive director of the international review committee, carried the names of the invited nations.

Wahrman's announcement said that because the Jamestown festival is concerned primarily with this country and because it was felt it would be an "imposition to ask any nation that did not have a direct connection to go to the expense of sending ships, the list was limited to the countries of the Americas, to those countries that participated in the exploration and settlement of the Americas" and to member nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Why Russia, which has the world's second largest navy, after the United States, did not qualify as one of the nations which "participated in the exploration of the settlement of the Americas" was not immediately clear.

Russian expeditions explored the Alaskan area near the Bering Strait in 1741, then becan settlements in "Russian America" which lasted until the United States purchased Alaska from Russia in 1867.

Brazil is a major republic of South America. It is the name also of a legendary island in the Atlantic Ocean, and the name of a town in Indiana.

Lincoln Honored by Totem Pole By Indians He also Set Free

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON
Central Press Assn.

JUNEAU, Alaska — Most unusual by far of the many likenesses of Abraham Lincoln around the world is "Lincoln On a Totem Pole" at the Indian ghost village of Saman, and no story of a people showing affection and admiration for the Great Emancipator is more touching than the one behind this little-known effigy.

When Lincoln with a stroke of his pen freed the slaves, he could not have known that the also was liberating many Indians of southeastern Alaska who were held in abject slavery by more powerful Indians, but that is exactly what happened five years later as an unexpected consequence of the United States' purchase of Alaska from Russia for only $7 million.

The Indians who were set free had the quaint custom of honoring heroes by carving eerie figures of them and putting them atop 50-foot poles around their village where today a few adventuresome souls who penetrate to the long-abandoned site can see the remaining ones whitening in the elements.

* * *

ACTUALLY, there are two Lincolns on totem poles: the original, with its arms gone and the brim of the stovepipe hat weathered away, but still a rugged portrayal of Lincoln's craggy countenance complete with beard, is carefully preserved in a glass case in the Territorial museum here; and an exact copy of the original, made in 1939 by descendants of the totem-carving Ganaxadi Indians and which still stands outside at Saman.

The urbane figure of Lincoln in dark suit and top hat clashes strangely with the surroundings but the totem carvers prided themselves on being realistic in their work and did it in color!

Most of their fantastic carvings were of symbolic figures such as the gigantic Raven which stands at the base of Lincoln's 50-foot timber pedestal, but the Indians insisted that these were done just as their "spirit" models actually were.

Since the Indians never had seen Lincoln, their top sculptor, Thleda, worked from a photograph, and made no compromises. Lincoln's long legs were cut off in the picture halfway below the knee, so they are similarly stubbed in the wooden statue.

The "four score and seven year ago" made famous by Lincoln in his Gettysburg address is, ironically, also about the life span of the hardy cedar carvings. Lincoln's carving still was in good shape in to Congress, rediscovered it where it long had been overlooked because it was far off the steamer trails.

* * *

A LIVE MINIATURE spruce tree had taken root from a seedling that had fallen into the left pocket. Lichens were beginning to cling to the black frock coat.

Indian slavery in Alaska arose from a deadly rivalry between two clans, the warlike Wolf, or Kokwan-ton, tribes, and the peaceful Ravens, or Ganaxadi, who fished for salmon and carved wood.

Indians in Alaska had evolved an elaborate social structure of castes. It took the sale to the United States

Honest Abe is high man on the totem pole here. The pole is a duplicate of the original erected by the Ganaxadi Indians after they gained their freedom close on the heels of the Emancipation Proclamation to set the Ravens free.

They heard the story of Lincoln's freeing the slaves when William H. Seward, in 1869, visited what derisively had been called "Seward's Icebox," because Alaska had been purchased in his administration as secretary of state.

* * *

CHIEF EBBETS and his aide, sub-chief Tsa-kad, were moved so deeply that they immediately commissioned Thle-da to add Lincoln to their gallery of heroes and gods. The amazingly accurate legends of these people with no wiritten history tell of a great potlach, or celebration, being held when the Lincoln totem was erected.

With their new freedom and the advent of jobs elsewhere as Alaska was opened up, the Indians drifted away and left only their lonely totems as reminders of daring deeds done.

Wherever they are today, however, the Ganaxadi carry on the traditions of their forefathers as wood carvers, and the U. S. Forest service in 1937 rescued the original totem pole and a new native monument was carved to stand for another four score and seven years as a Lincoln of the far north, symbol of liberty!

JACK BARRY (left), emcee of the TV "Twenty-one" quiz program, points to the total winnings of Charles van Doren, the 30-year-old Columbia university English instructor, after his eleventh appearance on the show. This week Van Doren ticked off two contestants quickly to add $16,000 to his winnings. (International)

Detailed Definitions Given On 'Indispensable Secretary'

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

What is a secretary?

Well, of course everybody knows she is what makes the wheels of big business go round, the essential ingredient of industry, the indispensable girl.

But the National Secretaries Assn. comes up with more detailed definitions in a new booklet, "Calling Professional Secretaries". This is the first of a series of brochures planned by the association, after being flooded with requests from students, bosses and personnel directors all over the country.

Here's how the association describes a secretary: ".... An executive assistant who works directly with rather than for an executive...who knows how to work with people...who knows the answers to company problems...protects her employer from interruptions...and has complete mastery of office skills."

The brochure outlines the rewards of a secretarial career, includes an aptitude quiz and gives advice on how to prepare for a top secretarial job.

Meanwhile various other organizations are delving into the absorbing question of the virtues and faults of the all-American secretary. Editors of the Bureau of Business Practice, for instance, have been gathering up gripes from bosses who admit that they couldn't get through a business day without their Girl Fridays, but admit there are some flaws in the average secretarial make-up, such as:

Not correcting the boss' errors.

Gossiping about the boss' personal affairs on business deals.

Lack of planning.

Disappearing without letting the boss know when she will be back.

Calling the boss by his first name in front of strangers.

Clock watching.

Complaining about the office decor.

Using the office telephone to conduct a complicated personal social life.

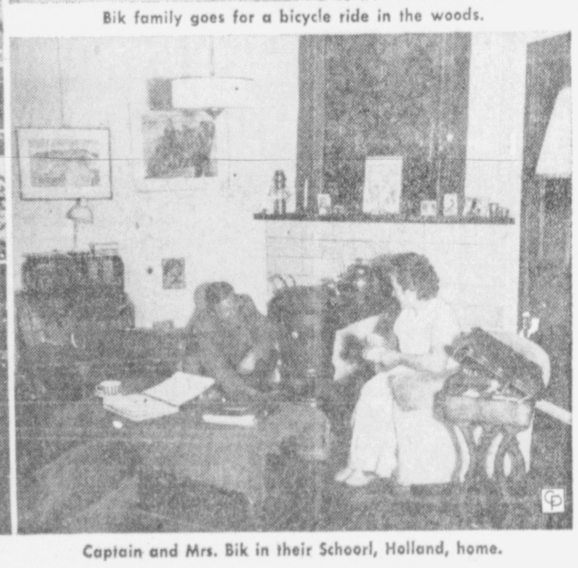
Jets To Bring Faster, Safer Air Travel Says Expert Pilot

Captain Bik

Bik family goes for a bicycle ride in the woods.



Captain and Mrs. Bik in their Schoorl, Holland, home.

By LESLIE P. EICHEL
Central Press Assn.

New York — Tomorrow we will be in London or Amsterdam or Paris for breakfast, back home in New York for dinner.

Tomorrow we will think nothing of one - day roundtrips to Europe.

Tomorrow Europe will be closer to New York in time than nearby Washington was a mere 30 years ago.

Tomorrow 600 miles an hour will be our accepted speed.

Tomorrow there will be no fear of air turbulence. . .for one will ride above, around the storms, seven miles up. . .and there will not be a tremor as the jet transport with its 170 passengers glides through the stratosphere.

Tomorrow is nearly here—1959-1960.

* * *

A FUTURE PILOT of those transoceanic jets was talking. He still is a young man, 37, although he has 216,000 miles of worldwide passenger plane flying to his credit.

Capt. Frank Bik of Schoorl, Holland, is full of prophecies, all practical. His is a scientific mind. He is co-author of "The Minimum Flight Path", a computer for air routes over the Atlantic ocean that by various technical means guides pilots into "the minimum fuel path." The longest way around may be the shortest in time.

Bik employs a method devised by himself in his flights that permits him to gauge minute - to-minute the changes in the atmosphere, which govern the weather. This, of course, is in addition to radar, which "sees through the weather" 150 miles ahead.

* * *

TO CAPTAIN BIK the transporting of 170 passengers in a jet airliner at 10 miles a minute will be a matter of ordinary procedure. "The speedier the plane, the less danger," he reasons. "One can get out of the way in a flash." However, he adds, if the weather is bad in New York, passengers may have to deplane at Chicago, slightly more than an hour away.

The problem lies not in the jet planes, but airports. Will they be ready?

Merely a few, all over the world, are prepared to receive the large jet transports. In the United States, New York, Washington, Chicago, Miami, perhaps Los Angeles and San Francisco, are ready, but what of intermediate cities?

JET PILOTS will have even more time than pilots of the present super-Constellations. As it is, Capt. Bik, with regular - as - clockwork transatlantic crossings, has virtually half of each week at his home in Schoorl, "The Beverly Hills of Holland."

Capt. Bik does an amazing number of things during his earthbound time. As a husband and the father of five children, he has many home responsibilities of course. However, beyond that he has avocations that would occupy all the time of an average man.

Taking up horseback riding just two years ago, he's now an expert horseman. He is a champion ice skater and a breeder of rare tulips, following a complete agricultural course.

The versatile captain has learned to perform on a multitude of musical instruments. Then, when night falls and the children have said goodnight, Bik turns to his scientific studies, probing into the still unconquered realms of the stratosphere.

"Tomorrow" is the word most often on the lips of this man of today who will propel us into that tomorrow. He and hundreds of other navigators of the air are "propelling" paper jets over charts every day to observe how the real jets will function navigationally.

* * *

NEW PATHS of the air have to be laid out so that jets will not converge—as for example from London, Amsterdam, Paris — in a midocean traffic jam en route to New York.

Bik foresees, also, that as nations are drawn closer together in time—he thinks only in time units, not miles—people also will be drawn closer together, and perhaps there will be increased understanding.

Thus these pilots, these new world navigators, also will be messengers of goodwill.

Van Doren Story Is Labeled Best 'Serial' on TV Today

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — By far the most exciting serial on television these days is the Charles Van Doren story.

From week to week we breathlessly watch our hero as he braves the perils and pitfalls of information and knowledge set for him by that excellent quiz show Twenty-One (NBC-TV Monday night).

The guy is truly amazing. He is not a zealot in one field of knowledge. Rather, his interests are universal.

In rolling his earnings to $138,000 on Monday evening Van Doren again displayed the diversity of interests that Twenty-One demands of its contestants. Of the four series of questions he answered, two concerned history, one music and the fourth geography.

It is interesting to hear the report of one viewer to this department on how he would have failed where Van Doren succeeded. The viewer's qualifications give some idea of the mental acumen involved in the game, for he has an I.Q. of 160, graduated near the top of his class from an excellent college, has wide and varied experience and interests, is a writer and a passionate student of history and literature. This viewer reports to us:

He failed to recognize the tune "Once in Love with Amy" and, naturally, all other details about it. He failed to complete the geography question, being unable to remember that the Sea of Marmora, as well as the Dardanelles and Bosporus, connect the Black and Aegean seas.

He correctly recalled that the Empress Charlotte, wife of Maximilian, went to Mexico in 1864 where the leader of the liberal government was Juarez. But on the question of George Washington's appointments he says he could not remember that Samuel Osgood was the first postmaster general.

There is irony in the fact that Van Doren's chosen field of endeavor is teaching and writing — not winning quiz contests. He went on the program as a kind of lark with the hope of making a little change — and suddenly he finds he has almost become an industry. He is deluged by requests to appear on this and that TV program. He has been offered $50,000 to make a Hollywood movie. Other commercial offers pour in.

State Changes Tire-Buying Procedure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Highway Department said today that within the next week it will have precise specifications to guide firms bidding of the department's tire business.

Recently, the department rejected all bids on about $200,000 worth of tires. Specifications under which those bids were received called for first line tires of a grade normally used as standard original equipment on new automotive equipment.

The apparent low bidder, Cooper Tire and Rubber Co of Findlay, Ohio, was several dollars per tire lower than other bidders.

The department's deputy director for administration, Fred G. Heiners, and the new highway chief, Charles M. Noble, decided a more definite and precise set of specifications should have been used for the bids and threw them all out.

The new specifications will be based on specifications developed by the U. S. Bureau of Standards and the purchasing agencies for the armed forces.

The department said the specifications will insure "the best suitable tires for the department at the lowest cost "and give everyone an equal opportunity" to submit bids whether or not their tires are used as original equipment.

Quick Brown Fox Goes Rock 'n' Roll

LONDON (AP)—The quick brown fox which has been jumping over the lazy dog's back for years has fallen victim to rock 'n' roll.

The quick-brown-fox line came into use years ago as a standard test of typewriters and news wire circuits because its combination of letters was supposed to provide a broad-ranged check of equipment.

But into London newspaper offices today came this test of the wires of a local news agency:

"The quick brown fox jumps over the lazy dogs back

"12 rock 34 rock 56 rock 78 rock rock

"rock 'n' roll rock 'n' roll rock 'n' roll

'Inaugural Ball' Held Despite Loss

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — Some 2,000 Rhode Island Republicans took part this week in an "inaugural ball" although their man for governor, Christopher Del Sesto, did not win last November.

The 'inaugural ball" was promised a few days before the election by Republican leaders who felt Del Sesto would beat Democrat Dennis J. Roberts.

The count of all ballots gave Del Sesto a lead over Roberts, but the State Supreme Court later invalidated some absentee ballots thus Roberts won.

TO CAPTAIN BIK the transporting of 170 passengers in a jet airliner at 10 miles a minute will be a matter of ordinary procedure. "The speedier the plane, the less danger," he reasons. "One can get out of the way in a flash." However, he adds, if the weather is bad in New York, passengers may have to deplane at Chicago, slightly more than an hour away.

The problem lies not in the jet planes, but airports. Will they be ready?

Merely a few, all over the world, are prepared to receive the large jet transports. In the United States, New York, Washington, Chicago, Miami, perhaps Los Angeles and San Francisco, are ready, but what of intermediate cities?

JET PILOTS will have even more time than pilots of the present super-Constellations. As it is, Capt. Bik, with regular - as - clockwork transatlantic crossings, has virtually half of each week at his home in Schoorl, "The Beverly Hills of Holland."

Capt. Bik does an amazing number of things during his earthbound time. As a husband and the father of five children, he has many home responsibilities of course. However, beyond that he has avocations that would occupy all the time of an average man.

Taking up horseback riding just two years ago, he's now an expert horseman. He is a champion ice skater and a breeder of rare tulips, following a complete agricultural course.

The versatile captain has learned to perform on a multitude of musical instruments. Then, when night falls and the children have said goodnight, Bik turns to his scientific studies, probing into the still unconquered realms of the stratosphere.

"Tomorrow" is the word most often on the lips of this man of today who will propel us into that tomorrow. He and hundreds of other navigators of the air are "propelling" paper jets over charts every day to observe how the real jets will function navigationally.

* * *

NEW PATHS of the air have to be laid out so that jets will not converge—as for example from London, Amsterdam, Paris — in a midocean traffic jam en route to New York.

Bik foresees, also, that as nations are drawn closer together in time—he thinks only in time units, not miles—people also will be drawn closer together, and perhaps there will be increased understanding.

Thus these pilots, these new world navigators, also will be messengers of goodwill.

Van Doren Story Is Labeled Best 'Serial' on TV Today

By CHARLES MERCER

From week to week we breathlessly watch our hero as he braves the perils and pitfalls of information and knowledge set for him by that excellent quiz show Twenty-One (NBC-TV Monday night).

In rolling his earnings to $138,000 on Monday evening Van Doren again displayed the diversity of interests that Twenty-One demands of its contestants. Of the four series of questions he answered, two concerned history, one music and the fourth geography.

It is interesting to hear the report of one viewer to this department on how he would have failed where Van Doren succeeded. The viewer's qualifications give some idea of the mental acumen involved in the game, for he has an I.Q. of 160, graduated near the top of his class from an excellent college, has wide and varied experience and interests, is a writer and a passionate student of history and literature. This viewer reports to us:

He failed to recognize the tune "Once in Love with Amy" and, naturally, all other details about it. He failed to complete the geography question, being unable to remember that the Sea of Marmora, as well as the Dardanelles and Bosporus, connect the Black and Aegean seas.

He correctly recalled that the Empress Charlotte, wife of Maximilian, went to Mexico in 1864 where the leader of the liberal government was Juarez. But on the question of George Washington's appointments he says he could not remember that Samuel Osgood was the first postmaster general.

There is irony in the fact that Van Doren's chosen field of endeavor is teaching and writing — not winning quiz contests. He went on the program as a kind of lark with the hope of making a little change — and suddenly he finds he has almost become an industry. He is deluged by requests to appear on this and that TV program. He has been offered $50,000 to make a Hollywood movie. Other commercial offers pour in.

'Inaugural Ball' Held Despite Loss

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — Some 2,000 Rhode Island Republicans took part this week in an "inaugural ball" although their man for governor, Christopher Del Sesto, did not win last November.

The 'inaugural ball" was promised a few days before the election by Republican leaders who felt Del Sesto would beat Democrat Dennis J. Roberts.

The count of all ballots gave Del Sesto a lead over Roberts, but the State Supreme Court later invalidated some absentee ballots thus Roberts won.

State Changes Tire-Buying Procedure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Highway Department said today that within the next week it will have precise specifications to guide firms bidding of the department's tire business.

Recently, the department rejected all bids on about $200,000 worth of tires. Specifications under which those bids were received called for first line tires of a grade normally used as standard original equipment on new automotive equipment.

The apparent low bidder, Cooper Tire and Rubber Co of Findlay, Ohio, was several dollars per tire lower than other bidders.

The department's deputy director for administration, Fred G. Heiners, and the new highway chief, Charles M. Noble, decided a more definite and precise set of specifications should have been used for the bids and threw them all out.

The new specifications will be based on specifications developed by the U. S. Bureau of Standards and the purchasing agencies for the armed forces.

The department said the specifications will insure "the best suitable tires for the department at the lowest cost "and give everyone an equal opportunity" to submit bids whether or not their tires are used as original equipment.

Quick Brown Fox Goes Rock 'n' Roll

LONDON (AP)—The quick brown fox which has been jumping over the lazy dog's back for years has fallen victim to rock 'n' roll.

The quick-brown-fox line came into use years ago as a standard test of typewriters and news wire circuits because its combination of letters was supposed to provide a broad-angled check of equipment.

But into London newspaper offices today came this test of the wires of a local news agency:

Future Plans Of Business Under Study

Current Economic Trends Eyed by Top Financial Leaders

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The watchful waiters in the business world today are concentrating on some trends that may soon show a firm direction.

The economy watchers include such government agencies as the money managers. They include also stock market traders, labor leaders and the economists who advise business management on its future plans.

The trends that are being watched closely now include: Commodity prices, corporate profits, inventory build ups, capital expansion programs and the effect of stock market reverses on public psychology.

These we can watch now. In a couple of months we'll be able to see the effect of spring on auto buying, home building, retail trade.

The inflation which the public is noting today is at the retail level and no longer at the commodity level.

Many commodity prices got a big boost when the Suez Canal was blocked and war jitters spread. In recent weeks, however, most of these increases have melted and most of the commodities are back where they were before the crisis started.

Price trends show first at the commodity level and the price increases currently agitating consumers are the result of advances some time back in costs of materials and labor. Observers will watch closely in the next few weeks to see if the recent declines in commodity prices continue.

Corporate profit trends tend to hit the stock market first and to affect business planning later. During most of last year profit margins were dropping. There was a bounce back in the final months of the year that may bring total corporate profits for last year even with or a little above 1955. But the big year-by-year gains have halted, at least for a time.

Costs of doing business have risen much faster than the prices of finished products. The fairly sharp drop in profit margins—with its inherent threat of future effect on dividend payments—has caught the attention of stock traders. They and business economists alike will watch for the earnings statements of the current quarter, when these show up in a couple of months, to see if last year's trend is continuing.

They also pick up their ears whenever they hear that some big company is postponing part of its plant expansion program. There are only scattered signs now that the big business building boom is cresting. But that is something to watch.

Tryouts Set for Next Tuesday Evening

Fayette County Boys Choir To Be Enlarged This Spring

Some busy days are ahead of the Fayette County Boys Choir.

It has four concerts coming up for one thing; for another it is going to be enlarged.

The first of the concerts probably will be given at Easter in one of the churches, but which church has not yet been decided definitely. Three other concerts will be given before the choir starts its summer vacation May 15. One will be at Bloomingburg, another at a meeting of the Rotary Club and the last one in Memorial Hall for the parents of the choir members in mid-May.

Mrs. Robert E. Willis, who has been the organizing force behind choir and its director, announced that tryouts for the choir will be held at 6:30 p. m. next Tuesday in Memorial Hall. She said "any boy who can sing and likes to sing" is eligible.

When the choir was organized by Mrs. Willis last October, there were 45 boys and youths in it. But since then the membership has dropped to around 30. In view of the fact that it as something new and that none of those in it ever had sung in a boys choir before, Mrs. Willis feels that the shrinkage has been less than could logically have been expected.

* * *

WHEN THE CHOIR was formed, she said, plans called for holding tryouts in the spring and fall—just before and just after the summer vacation. At these times, she said, the vacancies created by members outgrowing the choir or moving away could be filled.

Mrs. Willis has no set goal for the choir, but expressed the hope that it could be built up to a membership of around 50 and then held at about that size.

Members of the choir range in age from 9 to 22 years. They come from all parts of the county, more than a third of them from the rural areas and villages.

Rehearsals are held twice a week, on Tuesday and Thursday nights, in Memorial Hall. Many of the boys come from several miles away, but few miss the practices, which always start promptly at 6:30 p. m.

Mrs. Willis explains the regular attendance and punctuality like this: "They like to sing and they have a good time. . .they just don't like to miss any of it."

* * *

MRS. WILLIS said the choir has been improving steadily and the number of its selections increasing week by week. She added that the boys take a deep pride in their achievements and are anxious to show the people what they have done and let them know what they hope to do.

The Fayette County Boys Choir is not a profit-making project, but a certain amount of money is needed for incidental expenses, principally for music.

Contributions by "nearly every organization in the community" have provided the financial support. The contributions have not been big, Mrs. Willis said, but in the aggregate they have been sufficient for the present needs.

The piano that was in Memorial Hall has been given minor repairs and tuned. It now answers the purpose very well. Some drapes are to be hung across the end of the hall to improve the accoustical qualities of the big hall.

A treat is in store for the choir, a sort of reward for faithful work. It is to go to Dayton March 6 to hear the widely known Dayton Boys Choir.

The choir here is patterned after the Dayton choir and it is held up as a sort of goal, Mrs. Willis explained.

But right now, the interest centers on the tryouts next Tuesday evening in Memorial Hall; for all of the members of the choir are looking forward with keen anticipation to the day when they will have an organization of 50 voices.

USSR Changes Emblem

MOSCOW (AP) — The Supreme Soviet of the USSR quietly changed the national emblem in September. It reduced by one the number of languages in which the Soviet motto "proletarians of all countries, unite" appears on the emblem, to match the reduction in Soviet states from 16 to 15. At the year's end the popular magazine "Ogonek" printed a colored reproduction of the new emblem.

LWV To Meet Next Monday

A study of government financing—both local and state—that was started at last month's meeting is to be continued by the Washington C. H. League of Women Voters next Monday at he home of Mrs. Hugh W. Payton, 416 Jupiter St.

The announcement fixing the time and place of the meeting said Mrs. Paul S. Craig and Mrs. Mike Harrison would be co-leaders of the discussion. The meeting is to open at 2 p. m.

A spokesman for the LWV said the study would follow two parallel lines, one of them relative to taxes and income and the other on spending.

Plans also call for an analysis of the tax structure, both local and state, and its relation to that of the federal government.

Briton Says World Looks to America

BALTIMORE (AP) — British Ambassador Sir Harold Caccia says President Eisenhower's policy can help defend the Middle East from "Communist incursions" but internal "dissensions" will continue to be a threat to the area.

"That is why the world today looks to the United States for a clear and firm lead . . . to enable everyone to cooperate in a solution of these problems," he said.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a single girl 23, and some people say I am nice looking, but it doesn't turn my head. I want not to be conceited, ever. But is it conceited or selfish to want to be slim, poised and well groomed?

Sometimes I think all that defeats me is fear of becoming selfish and conceited. My main problem is that for the last eight years, since I was 15, I've had the habit of overeating. I go on eating sprees and consume enormous quantities of ice cream, chocolates, pastries, soft drinks, etc., and can't seem to control myself.

I like my job, my co-workers are wonderful and my home life is happy on the whole. We aren't rich but I've never wanted for anything; and I've never had any real responsibilities. My parents think I'll outgrow my "false appetite" eventually.

I avoid friends and obligations, postpone work to the last minute, neglect my appearance, bypass social opportunities, do nothing constructive, go to bed late. My senses get dulled and everything seems unreal or out of proportion.

Periodically I snap out of it—stop gorging, recover perspective, get some sleep, bounce back emotionally, start loving life, believing in myself and losing weight. This lasts about two weeks. Then I start meeting my share of troubles, like everyone else; but unlike others, I can't take them. Soon I am morbidly overeating again.

DEAR S. T.: As you recall, the problem took hold when you were about 15, you say. But possibly that was simply the point in your experience when the problem began to pinch more painfully. Maybe it had existed for years before, without your being consciously aware of it.

Age 15 is early adolescence, a time when boys and girl tend to become uneasily self - conscious, even without embarrassing cause. It is a time when they begin to wonder anxiously and to care tremendously about whether they are (or will be) attractive, well liked, popular members of the right crowd at school—or even "included," in dating situations, particularly.

It seems when you were 15, somebody put the finger of ridicule on you for being fat. And you were so jolted by the criticism that you hastily dieted down to 78 pounds (not too bad, at 15, for your five feet, two inches height). Thereafter you became conscious of having a problem—of overeating, habitually, in moods of discouragement.

Your problem is complex and psychosomatic in origin, caused by a blend of physical, emotional, mental and social factors, all interacting in a vicious circle.

First of all, you are unduly dependent, immature and passive—over-protected by doting parents who baby you. Thus you've failed to develop self - disciplinary strength and persistence, necessary to achieve success in any field. Also you lack the self-assured initiative that would make you a potent force in the social life of your own age group—so you are an outsider to their doings.

Second, your periodic compulsion to gorge on sweets, a "false" greed geared to a flock of depression symptoms, may reflect a chronic condition of "blood sugar starvation," that throws your whole personality off stride. So, all things considered, my advice is: Read "Body, Mind & Sugar" by Dr. E. M. Abrahamson and A. W. Pezet (Holt) as a first step in getting perspective on what to do, to lick the problem.

Highway 'Crash' Program May Be Hurt by Funds Lack

COLUMBUS (AP)—Cleveland Mayor Anthony Celebreeze says lack of local matching funds could wreck Gov. C. William O'Neill's "crash program" for highway construction.

Mayor Celebrezze said if the program was to succeed, the state would have to assume the entire 10 per cent share of construction costs on the federal interstate system. Under the new federal highway program, the federal government assumes 90 per cent of such construction costs.

"The crash program is a sound one in that highways will be built from point to point, not piecemeal. However, many cities are unable to afford their share of urban construction.

"If Gov. O'Neill wants these highways built as soon as possible, and they should be built as soon as possible, the state should pay the full 10 per cent."

Under the highway department cost formula, cities are required to pay 5 per cent of construction costs on those segments of interstate highways which pass through urban areas.

Mayor Ollie Czelusta said Toledo was one of those cities which would be hard pressed to supply local matching funds.

"Planning and engineering would cost us $600,000 this year and we just couldn't afford it," he said.

Mayor Carl F. Wise of Canton said he feared that if the state were forced to assume 10 per cent of the construction costs it would hurt construction of non-interstate roads.

"Are we going to sacrifice non-interstate roads to this crash program?" Mayor Wise asked.

The meeting here was called by Columbus Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner to discuss the highway cost problem and to formulate a policy for Ohio's largest cities.

Housing Color Line End To Be Sought

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio branch of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People plans to sponsor a legislative bill aimed at ending discrimination in housing.

Serena E. Davis, Ohio NAACP field secretary, said the proposed Fair Housing Law which will be introduced shortly is designed to further "the elimination and prevention of certain practices of discrimination because of race, creed, color or national origin in publicly assisted housing accommodations."

Big Business Firms Top Party Throwers

By LEE HANCOCK
By Central Press Ass'n.

NEW YORK — The hostess who thinks she has a problem when it comes to what to serve at a dinner party and where to seat Uncle Lou should see what goes on when a big business throws a shindig.

Even Elsa Maxwell, commonly considered a master party thrower, probably would back down if confronted with the sort of thing routinely handled by the nation's public relations men.

When a big manufacturer of mattresses wanted to introduce a new product the company threw a $35,000 pajama party. The Gold Suite of New York's Savoy Plaza was hired. Some 300 mattresses were strewn on the floor, and the guests (dealers, company executives and press reporters), were outfitted in pajamas, robes and slippers. Drinking and eating was done in a horizontal position.

The company anticipated that they'd have to write off a lot of mattresses after the ball was over due to cigaret burns and spilled drinks. They were, however, slightly surprised to find that six mattresses had been stolen outright!

A chemical company in New England tackled the job of turning 2,000 employes, families, friends and high school students loose in a laboratory containing complicated scientific equipment.

In surroundings obviously not intended for such goings on, they managed to feed their guests sandwiches, cake, ice cream and coffee. The score when it was all over: A lot of pleased visitors, no mishaps to the equipment, no casualties among the guests.

* * *

AN EVEN more hair-raising experiment was performed by an Ohio welding company, which turned over to a public relations firm the task of holding an open house while the plant was in full-blast operation.

The public relations man accomplished the job by providing safety glasses for all guests, and guarding the welding operations with plastic section and improvised shields of smoked storm windows.

Not long ago, a big calendar maker turned over to a public relations man the job of getting its 1,800 salesmen and their wives to the company's diamond jubilee at its quarters. Seventeen airlines had to be negotiated with in order to handle the job.

* * *

ONE AUTOMOBILE company spent $125,000 to introduce its new proving ground to the public. Attention to detail was such that the company had on hand enough raincoats for men and raincapes for women, as well as enough sun glasses, to accommodate the crowd of 600. It turned out that they needed both.

The problems attendant upon big business entertaining do not always have to do entirely with the handling of guests.

When the nation's big soap and detergent producing companies run a promotion to introduce a new washing preparation, their biggest problem is, invariably, hot water.

Such an affair frequently is held in a hotel ballroom, which does not have the necessary pipe connections to take care of 140-degree water for a battery of washing machines. The soap manufacturers have learned by experience that the way to solve this is to pipe the water through the furnace boiler.

* * *

THE MAN behind all this hoopla quite likely is anything but a gladhand party boy type. More often than not he's a solid citizen inclined to worry, with more gray hair than he's entitled to at his age. Within the walls of his own firm he's usually known as an account executive.

While he very often is not a party boy himself, the public relations man nevertheless must see to it that each function he is asked to mastermind is sparked by enough lively personalities to keep things moving.

He does this first by combing the organization giving the function for promising people, next by putting hired pretty girls at strategic points, and last by dipping into the entertainment world.

He may not look the part, but without question, today's public relations man is stealing much of Elsa Maxwell's thunder.

Ohio Precipitation Still Below Normal

COLUMBUS (AP) — Despite light snow, precipitation in Ohio in general was below normal for January, the state division of water reports

Toledo reported 1.66 inches of precipitation, Chillicothe 3.29 and Cincinnati 3.2 while the rest of the state averaged 2 inches.

The division also reported recharge of underground water supplies was "much less than might normally be expected" in January. While higher than one year ago, water levels are considerably below the five-year average.

This Van Doren To Shun TV Quiz

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP) — Charles Van Doren, TV's startling "know-it-all," has a brother who has one more degree and who also is a college instructor.

But John Van Doren said today at Brandeis University:

"Under no circumstances will I go on the show against my brother."

John, 28, and a history instructor, won't even watch Charles as he continues to win money on the show. He has won $138,000.

"I'm too nervous," John says, adding without explanation, "and there are complications."

New Substance Excells Diamond

NEW YORK (AP) — Development of a manmade substance hard enough to scratch a diamond has been announced by General Electric scientists.

The substance, named "Borazon," was created through the application of tremendous pressure and heat. Its cubic crystal formation is said to be strikingly similar to that of a diamond.

The new product, the announcement said, is expected to have "far-reaching impact" in industrial polishing and cutting operations. Its resistance to heat is double that of diamonds. It has no apparent value as a gem.

THE MAN behind all this hoopla quite likely is anything but a glad-hand party boy type. More often than not he's a solid citizen inclined to worry, with more gray hair than he's entitled to at his age. Within the walls of his own firm he's usually known as an account executive.

While he very often is not a party boy himself, the public relations man nevertheless must see to it that each function he is asked to mastermind is sparked by enough lively personalities to keep things moving.

He does this first by combing the organization giving the function for promising people, next by putting hired pretty girls at strategic points, and last by dipping into the entertainment world.

He may not look the part, but without question, today's public relations man is stealing much of Elsa Maxwell's thunder.

New Substance Excells Diamond

NEW YORK (AP) — Development of a manmade substance hard enough to scratch a diamond has been announced by General Electric scientists.

The substance, named "Borazon," was created through the application of tremendous pressure and heat. Its cubic crystal formation is said to be strikingly similar to that of a diamond.

The new product, the announcement said, is expected to have "far-reaching impact" in industrial polishing and cutting operations. Its resistance to heat is double that of diamonds. It has no apparent value as a gem.

Ohio Precipitation Still Below Normal

COLUMBUS (AP) — Despite light snow, precipitation in Ohio in general was below normal for January, the state division of water reports

Toledo reported 1.66 inches of precipitation, Chillicothe 3.29 and Cincinnati 3.2 while the rest of the state averaged 2 inches.

The division also reported recharge of underground water supplies was "much less than might normally be expected" in January. While higher than one year ago, water levels are considerably below the five-year average.

This Van Doren To Shun TV Quiz

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP) — Charles Van Doren, TV's startling "know-it-all," has a brother who has one more degree and who also is a college instructor.

But John Van Doren said today at Brandeis University:

"Under no circumstances will I go on the show against my brother."

John, 28, a history instructor, won't even watch Charles as he continues to win money on the show. He has won $138,000.

"I'm too nervous," John says, adding without explanation, "and there are complications."

Jeff and Bloomingburg Win Tourney Openers

Madison Juniors Beat Wayne in Their Division

Jeffersonville and Bloomingburg varsity cagers and the Madison Mills junior high team emerged victorious from the first round of annual Fayette County basketball tournament in the Washington C. H. gym Wednesday night.

Both varsity losers have another chance yet, since they are playing in a double-elimination tourney. But the Wayne juniors are out for good.

* * *

ALTHOUGH THEY eventually won out, both Bloomingburg and Jeffersonville had to battle tough competition for their first-round victories. Early scores in both games were close, and neither victor could feel success was assured until late in the game.

Coach Bob Hildreth's Jeff Tigers, playing a man-to-man defense, spurted out to a head start, but had to watch the opposition climb back to within a point of the lead before the end of the first period.

In the second frame, the Tiger team, which boasted a 45 per cent shooting average for the evening, solved the system of the surprise man-to-man defense of Madison's Warriors and edged its way into a 10-point advantage.

Sharp shooting in the third frame added substantially to Jeff's lead, and the fourth period sewed things up.

Manford Sizemore scored 17 points for the victors, while Jim Smith was close behind with 15 and Jim Mason had 13.

BLOOMINGBURG'S Bulldogs and Wayne's Mad Anthony's played through a topsy-turvey first period that saw each team in the lead more than once and ended in a 17-all tie. While the packed gymnasium-full of fans went wild, the game simply teetered back and forth.

In the second period, the Bulldogs started to edge out in front and had a 6-point lead by the half.

Something happened to the Wayne team in the second half of that game. Although they dropped through 12 field goals before the intermission, they only succeeded in sinking two during the entire final 16 minutes of play.

And that did it for the Bulldogs. They scored 32 points during the second half and gave themselves a substantial victory.

Don Welsh of Bloomingburg was high scorer in that game with 17 points. Jerry McCoy followed with 12 and Bob Riley got 11.

200 Swans Aid Making of Coat

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Marlene Dietrich's opening night of a three-week engagement at the Sands Hotel here was, as the press agents say, supercolossal.

She wore a gown Wednesday night that her dressmaker says was fashioned with 227,000 hand-sewn diamond beads, required a million hand stitches and was six months in the making. She wore a huge white coat made from down of the breasts of 200 swans.

Cage Scoring Race Tightens Among Trio

CHICAGO (AP)—Is there a statistician in the house?

If so, please report to college basketball's individual scoring department. On the double — and bring your decimal points!

Assignment: Determine how far one mathematical point can stretch in separating these front runners for the national scoring title: Chet Forte of Columbia, Wilt Chamberlain of Kansas and Grady Wallace of South Carolina. As of this reading, 27-100ths of one point cover the trio, who have been exchanging the lead with bewildering rapidity.

Forte forged past Chamberlain Wednesday night with 45 points in Columbia's 93-75 Ivy League victory over Penn. He brought his average to 30.17 points per game. Friday night Wallace gets his chance to improve on a 29.90 mark when South Carolina hosts Virginia.

Saturday night, Forte and his Lions visit Dartmouth, while Chamberlain takes his 29.93 average along as the Jayhawks invade Missouri.

While Forte was enjoying the best night of his college career, North Carolina, the nation's top ranked team, belied dire predictions by whipping Wake Forest 72-69 for its 20th victory.

But the night's limelight belonged to Forte, the 5-foot-9 crew cut who hopes to enter medical school after finishing at Columbia this year. Chet hit the magic number needed to pass Chamberlain, 41—with 4:50 remaining.

Slump by Celtics Not Hurting Yet

NEW YORK (AP) — The Boston Celtics are in a slump but they'll have to do a lot worse than lose three out of four games to have their lead threatened in the eastern division of the National Basketball Assn.

The high - scoring Celtics still hold a seven-game margin over second place Philadelphia today even though they dropped a 115-114 decision to the Minneapolis Lakers while the Warriors were trouncing the Fort Wayne Pistons 99-89 Wednesday night.

Meantime, New York's Knickerbockers moved back into third place in the eastern division, 1½ games to the rear of the Warriors, by edging Rochester 85-82.

Jeff and Bloomingburg Win Tourney Openers

Madison Juniors Beat Wayne in Their Division

Jeffersonville and Bloomingburg varsity cagers and the Madison Mills junior high team emerged victorious from the first round of annual Fayette County basketball tournament in the Washington C. H. gym Wednesday night.

Both varsity losers have another chance yet, since they are playing in a double-elimination tourney. But the Wayne juniors are out for good.

* * *

ALTHOUGH THEY eventually won out, both Bloomingburg and Jeffersonville had to battle tough competition for their first-round victories. Early scores in both games were close, and neither victor could feel success was assured until late in the game.

Coach Bob Hildreth's Jeff Tigers, playing a man-to-man defense, spurted out to a head start, but had to watch the opposition climb back to within a point of the lead before the end of the first period.

In the second frame, the Tiger team, which boasted a 45 per cent shooting average for the evening, solved the system of the surprise man-to-man defense of Madison's Warriors and edged its way into a 10-point advantage.

Sharp shooting in the third frame added substantially to Jeff's lead, and the fourth period sewed things up.

Manford Sizemore scored 17 points for the victors, while Jim Smith was close behind with 15 and Jim Mason had 13.

Auto Proving Big Weapon Against Game

Wildlife Death Toll Runs High — Except For Old Joe Buffalo

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

What are the major lethal instruments in the harvest of game birds and animals?

To your list of shotgun and rifle — and before you get down to slingshot and harquebus — add one you might not have thought of: The automobile.

The automobile as a weapon long has been what game managers would call a predation factor involved in handling human populations. It's probably been a factor in some wildlife situations too, but no one yet has much of a general view of just how much.

On big game animals, there's some sort of a record if for no other reason than that a moose or a bear on the highway constitutes a substantial traffic hazard. Deer building up in the environs of Chicago, for instance, have been enough to create news stories just by their presence.

Iowa, where the return of a managed deer herd during the last decade or so has been a marvel for the non-professional has precise figures: 285 animals killed last year, compared to 216 in 1955 and 229 in 1954. The state's deer herd last year was 10,811 animals.

One of the big three whitetail states, Wisconsin, recorded 2,137 road-killed deer last year, compared with 1,472 in 1955. The state keeps close track because the amount of venison involved would feed quite a few if salvaged, and in 1956 there were 730 animals salvaged for sale.

Deer, however, do not offer a really valuable yardstick. If the deer in any given area are crowded to the point where they get in the road, that indicates mostly that there are too many deer anyway.

One Midwestern log showed 1,276 birds and animals dead on the road in 20,000 miles of driving during one year. Another, an Ohioan, counted these fatalities on a 19-mile stretch of highway upon which he commuted to work: 65 rabbits, 31 pheasants, 7 quail, 8 raccoon, 30 possums, 6 squirrels and 4 skunks.

Improvement of highways, from a traffic point of view, is bad news for game animals trying to cross. Two Pennsylvania Game Commission officials counted 38 pheasants killed trying to cross a four-lane highway in a 100-mile stretch one day.

It is not entirely a losing fight, however. The wildlife victims have a champion, too. The U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service reports from Alaska that a buffalo named Old Joe has demolished his fifth automobile in as many combats.

New Holland Cagers Lose Tourney Opener

The final curtain was rung down on basketball at New Holland Wednesday night after the high school's Bulldogs lost their opener in the Pickaway County tournament in the Coliseum at Circleville to the boys from Ashville by a score of 80 to 62.

That defeat put the New Hollanders out of the single-elimination tourney in which 11 teams are participating. In Pickaway County, there is no season - end tournament for the reserve and junior teams.

Inability to get going at the start of the game put the Bulldogs at a disadvantage they could not overcome. They were trailing by 24 points at the halftime, and although their last half surge cut that margin in half they were too far behind to close it.

The big difference, however, was at the foul line. The Bulldogs hit only 10 of 22 free throws while the Ashvillians were connecting with 26 of 32, an amazing 80 per cent accuracy.

* * *

THE BULLDOGS sank 40 per cent of their shots from the field, but their opponents made good 47 per cent of theirs. But at that, the Bulldogs netted 26 two - pointers, only one less than the Ashvillians.

Glenn Large, with 20 points, led the Bulldog scoring. He and John Lininger, with 15, played the double - pivot for New Holland. Kenny Speakman, shooting from the outside and on drive-ins, tallied 12 points.

Both teams used the man-for-man defense.

Only two of the Bulldogs will be missing next year; Large and Bob Yeoman, played their last game for NHHS Wednesday night.

The Bulldogs played the first game of the tournament. In the other two games, Darby beat Walnut in an overtime scramble and Salt Creek outsted Monroe.

Aragon Sobs During Trial On Ring 'Fix'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Art Aragon broke down on the witness stand, sobbed into his handkerchief and tearfully told the prosecutor: "One of my good friends was killed in the ring."

The judge in the "Golden Boy" trial on fight fixing charges called a recess Wednesday while Aragon regained his composure.

Aragon's emotional breakup occurred while Dep. Dist. Atty. William Ritzi was hammering away on cross examination at Aragon steadily denied that he offered boxer Dick Goldstein $500 to take a dive in a fight scheduled for Dec. 18 in San Antonio, Tex., as Goldstein has charged.

The fight didn't come off because Aragon withdrew on the ground that he developed a fever.

Aragon had testified that he did tell Goldstein to stay down, if he got knocked down, and "don't be a hero," explaining that "I don't like to hurt fighters."

"Do you think it proper to advise boxers to stay down if they are not knocked out?" Ritzi asked.

Aragon paused, began to cry and told Ritzi about his friend. He was referring to Jimmy Doyle, a boyhood chum from East Los Angeles who died after being knocked out in 1947 in Cleveland by Sugar Ray Robinson, then welterweight champion.

Denison Set For Duel at Wittenberg

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Denison and Wittenberg, both victorious Wednesday night, are making it a real battle in their race for the Ohio Conference basketball title.

By defeating Akron 85-68 Wednesday night at Granville, Denison lifted its conference record to 10-2 and strengthened its hold on first place.

Not far behind, though, are the second place Wittenberg Fighting Lutherans, who brought their conference mark to 8-2 by whipping Ohio Wesleyan 88-62 at Springfield.

The two teams meet for a crucial game on Wittenberg's home court Saturday night.

At Toledo, Bowling Green's Falcons came from behind in the second period to defeat Toledo 72-68 in an overtime game. The score was tied 62-62 at the end of regulation play.

Youngstown University, playing on its home court, gained a 78-59 triumph over Steubenville for its 15th win of the season against three losses.

A nip and tuck battle at Gambier finally went to Ohio Northern 92-90 over Kenyon after the score was tied 14 times.

The University of Cincinnati evened its city basketball series with Xavier with a 69-57 victory. Xavier whipped Cincinnati 88-62 previously.

Top Duel Awaited In Mixed Foursome

BOGA RATON, Fla. (AP) — Don Hoenig of Wethersfield, Conn., and Poly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., meet Ann Quast of Marysville, Wash., and J. Walcott Brown of Manasquan, N. J., today in the top duel of the National Mixed Foursome golf tournament's second round of match play.

Miss Quast, defending champion, and Brown defeated W. B. Merry and Ellen Gery, both of West Palm Beach, Fla., 6 and 5 without difficulty Wednesday. Their opponents today eliminated Jack Cendoya and Lourdes Mestries, Cuban champions, 7 and 6.

Pistons Due To Move into Detroit Area

DETROIT (AP) — Officials of the Fort Wayne Pistons planned to huddle today with a Detroit group, and the millionaire owner of the club said the chances are "nine out of ten" that before nightfall the National Basketball Assn. franchise would be switched to Detroit for the 1957-58 season.

Owner Fred Zollner, looking forward to a rebirth of professional basketball in the Motor City, said only an unforeseen last minute slipup could keep the western division leaders from becoming the "Detroit Pistons."

"Professional basketball," he explained, "is going through the same growing pains that pro football went through. It's not so much that we're unhappy and unwanted in Fort Wayne. We're simply moving to the market."

The Pistons have been an NBA entry out of Fort Wayne since 1949, when the league was formed. They will play their home games at Olympica Stadium which accommodates about 15,000 for basketball. The Fort Wayne arena holds about 10,000.

But attendance at Fort Wayne's home games this season has averaged only 3,800. The Pistons will be moving away from a city of 137,000 and into one of the nation's most enthusiastic sports centers with a population of 2,600,000.

Asked if he had operated at a loss in the Hoosier city, Zollner replied: "I'd rather skip that."

Free-for All Seen In Texas Open Test

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A free-for-all in which, to quote the touring hotshots, "any one of 101" can win, was forecast today as a champion-filled field moved into the first round of the $20,000 Texas Open.

The system of having a new winner each week along the winter trail made the experts shy away from picking a favorite but if there was one it probably would be huge Mike Souchak.

National Open Champion Cary Middlecoff and PGA and Masters king Jack Burke along with five of the six winners of tournaments along the winter tour gave the field real class.

Fish 'Telephone' Is Proven Costly

Game Warden Joe Riggs answered. The men were using an old - time telephone generator which when cranked and with wire terminals dropped into the water, electrocutes the fish. The men were fined $117.50.

Brown Wins by TKO

Completely outclassed, the sluggish ex-champ was sliced up and stopped, an 11th-round technical knockout victim.

Auto Proving Big Weapon Against Game

Wildlife Death Toll Runs High — Except For Old Joe Buffalo

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

What are the major lethal instruments in the harvest of game birds and animals?

To your list of shotgun and rifle — and before you get down to slingshot and harquebus — add one you might not have thought of: The automobile.

The automobile as a weapon long has been what game managers would call a predation factor involved in handling human populations. It's probably been a factor in some wildlife situations too, but no one yet has much of a general view of just how much.

On big game animals, there's some sort of a record it for no other reason than that a moose or a bear on the highway constitutes a substantial traffic hazard. Deer building up in the environs of Chicago, for instance, have been enough to create news stories just by their presence.

Iowa, where the return of a managed deer herd during the last decade or so has been a marvel for the non-professional has precise figures: 285 animals killed last year, compared to 216 in 1955 and 229 in 1954. The state's deer herd last year was 10,811 animals.

One of the big three whitetail states, Wisconsin, recorded 2,137 road-killed deer last year, compared with 1,472 in 1955. The state keeps close track because the amount of venison involved would feed quite a few if salvaged, and in 1956 there were 730 animals salvaged for sale.

Deer, however, do not offer a really valuable yardstick. If the deer in any given area are crowded to the point where they get in the road, that indicates mostly that there are too many deer anyway.

One Midwestern log showed 1,276 birds and animals dead on the road in 20,000 miles of driving during one year. Another, an Ohioan, counted these fatalities on a 19-mile stretch of highway upon which he commuted to work: 65 rabbits, 31 pheasants, 7 quail, 8 raccoon, 30 possums, 6 squirrels and 4 skunks.

Improvement of highways, from a traffic point of view, is bad news for game animals trying to cross. Two Pennsylvania Game Commission officials counted 38 pheasants killed trying to cross a four-lane highway in a 100-mile stretch one day.

It is not entirely a losing fight, however. The wildlife victims have a champion, too. The U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service reports from Alaska that a buffalo named Old Joe has demolished his fifth automobile in as many combats.

Aragon Sobs During Trial On Ring 'Fix'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Art Aragon broke down on the witness stand, sobbed into his handkerchief and tearfully told the prosecutor: "One of my good friends was killed in the ring."

The judge in the "Golden Boy" trial on fight fixing charges called a recess Wednesday while Aragon regained his composure.

Aragon's emotional breakup occurred while Dep. Dist. Atty. William Ritzi was hammering away on cross examination at Aragon steadily denied that he offered boxer Dick Goldstein $500 to take a dive in a fight scheduled for Dec. 18 in San Antonio, Tex., as Goldstein has charged.

The fight didn't come off because Aragon withdrew on the ground that he developed a fever.

Aragon had testified that he did tell Goldstein to stay down, if he got knocked down, and "don't be a hero," explaining that "I don't like to hurt fighters."

"Do you think it proper to advise boxers to stay down if they are not knocked out?" Ritzi asked.

Aragon paused, began to cry and told Ritzi about his friend. He was referring to Jimmy Doyle, a boyhood chum from East Los Angeles who died after being knocked out in 1947 in Cleveland by Sugar Ray Robinson, then welterweight champion.

Denison Set For Duel at Wittenberg

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Denison and Wittenberg, both victorious Wednesday night, are making it a real battle in their race for the Ohio Conference basketball title.

By defeating Akron 85-68 Wednesday night at Granville, Denison lifted its conference record to 10-2 and strengthened its hold on first place.

Not far behind, though, are the second place Wittenberg Fighting Lutherans, who brought their conference mark to 8-2 by whipping Ohio Wesleyan 88-62 at Springfield.

The two teams meet for a crucial game on Wittenberg's home court Saturday night.

At Toledo, Bowling Green's Falcons came from behind in the second period to defeat Toledo 72-68 in an overtime game. The score was tied 62-62 at the end of regulation play.

Youngstown University, playing on its home court, gained a 78-59 triumph over Steubenville for its 15th win of the season against three losses.

A nip and tuck battle at Gambier finally went to Ohio Northern 92-90 over Kenyon after the score was tied 14 times.

The University of Cincinnati evened its city basketball series with Xavier with a 69-57 victory. Xavier whipped Cincinnati 88-62 previously.

Top Duel Awaited In Mixed Foursome

BOGA RATON, Fla. (AP) — Don Hoenig of Wethersfield, Conn., and Poly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., meet Ann Quast of Marysville, Wash., and J. Walcott Brown of Manasquan, N. J., today in the top duel of the National Mixed Foursome golf tournament's second round of match play.

Miss Quast, defending champion, and Brown defeated W. B. Merry and Ellen Gery, both of West Palm Beach, Fla., 6 and 5 without difficulty Wednesday. Their opponents today eliminated Jack Cendoya and Lourdes Mestries, Cuban champions, 7 and 6.

Pistons Due To Move into Detroit Area

DETROIT (AP) — Officials of the Fort Wayne Pistons planned to huddle today with a Detroit group, and the millionaire owner of the club said the chances are "nine out of ten" that before nightfall the National Basketball Assn. franchise would be switched to Detroit for the 1957-58 season.

Owner Fred Zollner, looking forward to a rebirth of professional basketball in the Motor City, said only an unforeseen last minute slipup could keep the western division leaders from becoming the "Detroit Pistons."

"Professional basketball," he explained, "is going through the same growing pains that pro football went through. It's not so much that we're unhappy and unwanted in Fort Wayne. We're simply moving to the market."

The Pistons have been an NBA entry out of Fort Wayne since 1949, when the league was formed. They will play their home games at Olympica Stadium which accommodates about 15,000 for basketball. The Fort Wayne arena holds about 10,000.

But attendance at Fort Wayne's home games this season has averaged only 3,800. The Pistons will be moving away from a city of 137,000 and into one of the nation's most enthusiastic sports centers with a population of 7,600,000.

Asked if he had operated at a loss in the Hoosier city, Zollner replied: "I'd rather skip that."

Free-for All Seen In Texas Open Test

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A free-for-all in which, to quote the touring hotshots, "any one of 101" can win, was forecast today as a champion-filled field moved into the first round of the $20,000 Texas Open.

The system of having a new winner each week along the winter trail made the experts shy away from picking a favorite but if there was one it probably would be huge Mike Souchak.

National Open Champion Cary Middlecoff and PGA and Masters king Jack Burke along with five of the six winners of tournaments along the winter tour gave the field real class.

Fish 'Telephone' Is Proven Costly

Game Warden Joe Riggs answered. The men were using an old - time telephone generator, which when cranked and with wire terminals dropped into the water, electrocutes the fish. The men were fined $117.50.

Brown Wins by TKO

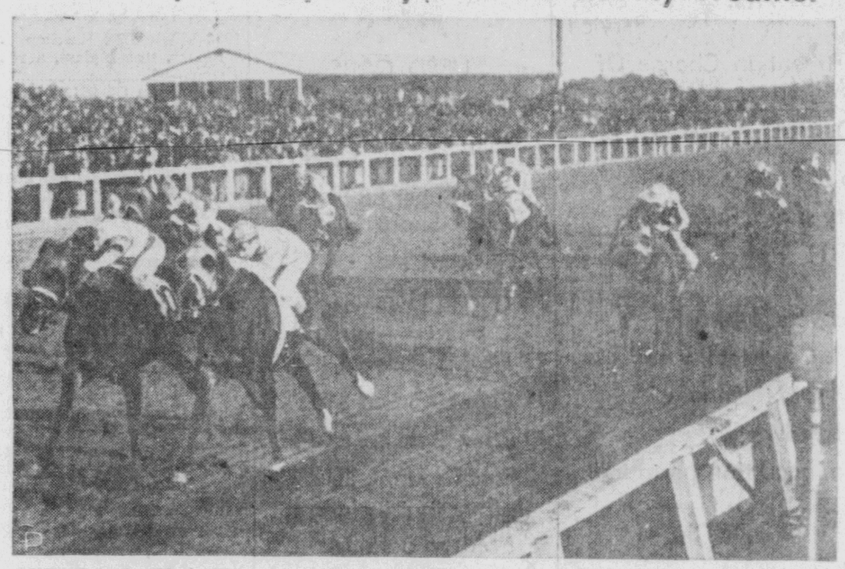
Completely outclassed, the sluggish ex-champ was sliced up and stopped, an 11th-round technical knockout victim.

Horse Players? Yep, They Turn Out in Any Weather



OPENING of the Bowie, Md., race season, earliest on record, brings out the old standbys—look along the rail—despite the winter-time weather and a crowd of 12,000 turned out to watch Weeper's Boy, a long shot, win this feature with Kinda Smart (on inside) a close second. (International)

Moore Loses Mooring While Moving from Mo.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — When Glenn L. Moore Jr. decided to move to Wichita, Kan., he rented a trailer to haul his household furnishings and his family's wardrobe. The Moores got only a few blocks before both of the trailer's tires blew out. Moore purchased two new ones. Within a few miles, the trailer hitch broke. Moore returned to Independence to get help, leaving the trailer alongside the highway. When he returned, the trailer was gone. The company which owned the trailer forced him to pay $500 for it.

Solon Astonished By Teen-Agers

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Rep. William H. Ayers (R-Ohio), hemmed in by shrieking teen-agers in a hotel lobby, said he was impressed with the enthusiasm of Albany's "Young Republicans."

One of the girls set him straight. The turnout was for actor-singer Tab Hunter.

"Who's he?" Ayers asked.

Shocked, the girl told him and asked, "Say, who are you, anyway?"

"A congressman."

"What's that?" she quipped.

Moore Loses Mooring While Moving from Mo.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — When Glenn L. Moore Jr. decided to move to Wichita, Kan., he rented a trailer to haul his household furnishings and his family's wardrobe. The Moores got only a few blocks before both of the trailer's tires blew out. Moore purchased two new ones. Within a few miles, the trailer hitch broke. Moore returned to Independence to get help, leaving the trailer alongside the highway. When he returned, the trailer was gone. The company which owned the trailer forced him to pay $500 for it.

Solon Astonished By Teen-Agers

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Rep. William H. Ayers (R-Ohio), hemmed in by shrieking teen-agers in a hotel lobby, said he was impressed with the enthusiasm of Albany's "Young Republicans."

One of the girls set him straight. The turnout was for actor-singer Tab Hunter.

"Who's he?" Ayers asked.

Shocked, the girl told him and asked, "Say, who are you, anyway?"

"A congressman."

"What's that?" she quipped.

Doubt Is Cast On Success of New Dulles Plan

Egyptians Bitter In Criticism of Proposal to Israel

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bitter Egyptian criticism cast grave doubt today on the success of the Dulles plan for persuading Israel to withdraw its forces from Egyptian territory.

The question now was whether Israel would accept the proposal without firm U. S. assurance that its interests in the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba would be backed up by more than words.

Israel postponed a decision to ask for further information on details it considered vague.

The plan which Secretary of State Dulles presented to Ambassador Abba Eban of Israel Monday offered a United States declaration in favor of navigation through the gulf and of United Nations security measures for the Gaza Strip if Israel would pull its troops out of both those areas.

Dulles' proposition was based in part on his belief, reportedly stated to Eban, that Egypt would go along with free access of all ships, including Israel's, to the gulf and that the U. N. could be expected to prevent future Egyptian attacks on Israel from the Gaza Strip.

* * *

THE STATE Department denied another report—that Dulles' assurances to Eban had included Egyptian approval of Israel's use of the gulf for shipping. The report said Egypt had given that information to U. N. officials. Dulles made no such statement, the department said.

In Cairo Egyptian spokesmen struck out at the United States offer although they did not flatly reject it. The State Department had no immediate reaction to the Egyptian criticism and there was no indication that it would upset the offer as far as the United States was concerned.

There was immediate speculation in informed quarters, however, as to whether it would not seriously affect Israel's reaction.

The Israelis have made clear that before they withdraw their troops they want "guarantees" that their shipping will be able to operate through the gulf and that they will no longer be subjected to raids from Gaza.

Neither Egypt nor the United Nations would give any guarantees, on the ground that Israel should not be rewarded for getting its troops out when the U. N. had repeatedly demanded that they be withdrawn. Dulles' offer followed as a compromise effort to end the deadlock.

Stay in School, Cagers Advise

Dayton Hoop Stars Talk at St. Colman's

Two University of Dayton basketball stars urged the youth of the country to stay in school so they can go on to college and get a solid foundation for living in a talk at St. Colman's Catholic Church here Wednesday night.

Tom Uhl, seven-foot ex-Greenfielder now starring with the University of Dayton hoopsters, and Mike Allen, a 6-10 former New Lexington cager now playing with the Dayton freshmen, spoke to a group of Catholic men at the church.

Many students coming out of high school and going into college do not have the proper scholastic background, especially in English and math, the two agreed. Both boys made it clear that they considered themselves plenty lucky to have been able to go to college where they are now having successful basketball careers.

The young men both praised Tom Blackburn, coach of the Dayton team, who has led his varsity to 13 victories and only one defeat so far this season.

Allen, who was all-Ohio at New Lexington, expressed special interest in the number of interesting people he has met in his travels in the new-found world of college basketball.

Both cagers started college at Ohio State and later transferred to Dayton.

Man Makes Threats And Is Arrested

His wife notified Sheriff Chas. Radcliff of Pickaway County, who called the police here. Williams was then arrested on a disorderly charge and he was being held here Thursday.

Police said he had been drinking.

Fishing Licenses Available Soon

Another 'Tall Man from Texas': That's Blakley, New U. S. Senator

By ROBERT MILLER
Central Press Assn.

DALLAS, Tex. — If you could sum up in one man the nation's idea of the typical Texan — lean and six feet tall, sort of shy, a man who rides easy in the saddle and is worth a cool $100 million—you couldn't find a better example than Texas' new junior senator.

William Arvis Blakley at 58 is all of that and then some. In fact, he's fabulous, even by Texas standards.

Blakley owns three insurance companies, a bank, is senior partner in his law firm, holds a certified public accountant's certificate, is the chief stockholder, a director and chairman of the executive committee of an airline, owns three ranches of 1,200 acres, 85,000 acres and 165,000 acres, respectively, and is currently engaged in building the 120-acre $125 million Exchange Park project in Dallas, which will include office buildings, a large hotel, a shopping center and a medical research center when completed.

* * *

DESPITE his prominence in the field of business and finance, few people in the Lone Star state, or even in his hometown of Dallas, had ever heard of Blakley before his interim appointment by outgoing Gov. Allan Shivers to sit in the Senate seat of Price Daniel until an election is held April 2 to fill the unexpired term.

Daniel, who had served as senator, won the gubernatorial race in last November's general election.

Blakley is a stranger to the role of a politician and says he has no intention of entering the special election on April 2. He is no stranger to politicians, however.

In Texas where politics generate deep and lasting feuds, he is not only a good friend of Shivers, but also of Shivers' political enemies Senator Lyndon Johnson, House Speaker Sam Rayburn and Daniel.

Like many other Texans, Blakley — "a lifelong Democrat" — voted for Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956 for President while supporting Senator Johnson's successful bid for re-election in 1952.

* * *

WITH ALL of his Texas appearance, the new senator, who favors wide, black bow ties and dark suits and buys Italian-imported Stetson-type hats by the dozens so he'll always have a clean one, is not a Texan by birth. He was born Nov. 17, 1988, in Miami Station, Mo., while his parents were on their way to Oklahoma Indian territory in a covered wagon.

In Oklahoma where his father was in the cattle business, Blakley attended high school at Arapahoe and worked as a cowboy, a pastime he follows to this day on his ranches near Dallas in West Texas and in New Mexico.

Nearly every Sunday after attending church services, Blakley spends the afternoon with his horses on the nearby 1,200 acre ranch.

* * *

BLAKLEY attended the University of Oklahoma, then entered the banking business and married the banker's daughter. He migrated to Texas during the early oil boom days and was in banking at Ranger before coming to Dallas in the early 1920s, already a CPA at the time. He read law in various Dallas law offices and was admitted to the Texas bar in 1932.

Blakley made his first bonanza in California real estate and in oil and gas in the years just prior to World War II.

After entering the insurance business in Dallas on a small scale during the war, he later bought controlling interest of a Scranton, Pa., insurance company. He is now chairman of the board of his three insurance companies, all with headquarters in Dallas.

Blakley's interest in aviation and his large acquirement of airline stock resulted from his association as personal secretary and advisor to the late Tom E. Braniff.

For relaxation Blakley holds oldtime roundups complete with chuck wagons on his ranches, spending about 30 days of each year on the range, riding fences, bulldozing a few steers, occasionally riding wild horses.

* * *

BLAKLEY has supported the Southwestern Legal foundation at Southern Methodist university in Dallas, making it possible for scores of lawyers from the Americas to study here. This same sense of philanthropy led him to include plans for a medical research center in his mammoth Exchange Park project.

As one of his associates said, "Bill has a real aversion to publicity about himself or anything he is connected with—he thinks it makes a thing lose its true and spiritual value."

Little Business At Council Meet

Several Matters Under Discussion

Most of the session of city council Wednesday night was spent in discussing various problems, but no outstanding matters of business came up for attention.

Ashall Judy, who lives in a house on the Bud Brownell tract on Washington Ave., purchased by the city and township for cemetery purposes, was present to see to whom he should pay the $20 rental charged for the premises, and was told to pay it to the city auditor, Miss Marie Melvin.

The rental is for the house, yards and garden. The barn is not used by Judy, and is for rent, it was noted.

A resolution to accept a plat of the Gilmore-Brownell addition, was presented, but was held up until Gilmore presents a plat for 10 lots, the remainder of the addition having been incorporated in a previous plat, it was learned.

The matter of run-around on the south end of Ely St. came up and it was announced provisions had made for it. It will be placed on the plat as part of the addition.

The matter of placing stop signs on the alley between W. Market and W. Temple Sts., back of the Cherry Hotel property, was discussed and referred to the Safety Service Committee and Chief Vaiden Long.

City Manager James F. Parkinson was authorized to contact Councilman Paul Van Voorhis to ascertain whether he intends to remain on council, as the vote of the additional member is frequently needed. Van Voorhis moved to Chillicothe recently but has submitted no formal resignation.

Doubt Is Cast On Success of New Dulles Plan

Egyptians Bitter In Criticism of Proposal to Israel

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bitter Egyptian criticism cast grave doubt today on the success of the Dulles plan for persuading Israel to withdraw its forces from Egyptian territory.

The question now was whether Israel would accept the proposal without firm U. S. assurance that its interests in the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba would be backed up by more than words.

Israel postponed a decision to ask for further information on details it considered vague.

The plan which Secretary of State Dulles presented to Ambassador Abba Eban of Israel Monday offered a United States declaration in favor of navigation through the gulf and of United Nations security measures for the Gaza Strip if Israel would pull its troops out of both those areas.

Dulles' proposition was based in part on his belief, reportedly stated to Eban, that Egypt would go along with free access of all ships, including Israel's, to the gulf and that the U. N. could be expected to prevent future Egyptian attacks on Israel from the Gaza Strip.

* * *

THE STATE Department denied another report—that Dulles' assurances to Eban had included Egyptian approval of Israel's use of the gulf for shipping. The report said Egypt had given that information to U. N. officials. Dulles made no such statement, the department said.

In Cairo Egyptian spokesmen struck out at the United States offer although they did not flatly reject it. The State Department had no immediate reaction to the Egyptian criticism and there was no indication that it would upset the offer as far as the United States was concerned.

There was immediate speculation in informed quarters, however, as to whether it would not seriously affect Israel's reaction.

The Israelis have made clear that before they withdraw their troops they want "guarantees" that their shipping will be able to operate through the gulf and that they will no longer be subjected to raids from Gaza.

Neither Egypt nor the United Nations would give any guarantees, on the ground that Israel should not be rewarded for getting its troops out when the U. N. had repeatedly demanded that they be withdrawn. Dulles' offer followed as a compromise effort to end the deadlock.

Stay in School, Cagers Advise

Dayton Hoop Stars Talk at St. Colman's

Two University of Dayton basketball stars urged the youth of the country to stay in school so they can go on to college and get a solid foundation for living in a talk at St. Colman's Catholic Church here Wednesday night.

Tom Uhl, seven-foot ex-Greenfielder now starring with the University of Dayton hoopsters, and Mike Allen, a 6-10 former New Lexington cager now playing with the Dayton freshmen, spoke to a group of Catholic men at the church.

Many students coming out of high school and going into college do not have the proper scholastic background, especially in English and math, the two agreed. Both boys made it clear that they considered themselves plenty lucky to have been able to go to college where they are now having successful basketball careers.

The young men both praised Tom Blackburn, coach of the Dayton team, who has led his varsity to 13 victories and only one defeat so far this season.

Allen, who was all-Ohio at New Lexington, expressed special interest in the number of interesting people he has met in his travels in the new-found world of college basketball.

Both cagers started college at Ohio State and later transferred to Dayton.

His wife notified Sheriff Chas. Radcliff of Pickaway County, who called the police here. Williams was then arrested on a disorderly charge and he was being held here Thursday.

Police said he had been drinking.

Fishing Licenses Available Soon

Some 1500 fishing license dealers in Fayette County and throughout Ohio are receiving their initial supply of 1957 licenses now, a report from the Department of Natural Resources says.

Within the next week, agencies in this area should have licenses and digests of fishing regulations available to fishermen. A 1957 license will be necessary March 1.

Ireland has a population of 2,989,700.

Another 'Tall Man from Texas': That's Blakley, New U. S. Senator

By ROBERT MILLER
Central Press Assn.

DALLAS, Tex. — If you could sum up in one man the nation's idea of the typical Texan — lean and six feet tall, sort of shy, a man who rides easy in the saddle and is worth a cool $100 million—you couldn't find a better example than Texas' new junior senator.

William Arvis Blakley at 58 is all of that and then some. In fact, he's fabulous, even by Texas standards.

Blakley owns three insurance companies, a bank, is senior partner in his law firm, holds a certified public accountant's certificate, is the chief stockholder, a director and chairman of the executive committee of an airline, owns three ranches of 1,200 acres, 85,000 acres and 165,000 acres, respectively, and is currently engaged in building the 120 - acre $125 million Exchange Park project in Dallas, which will include office buildings, a large hotel, a shopping center and a medical research center when completed.

* * *

DESPITE his prominence in the field of business and finance, few people in the Lone Star state, or even in his hometown of Dallas, had ever heard of Blakley before his interim appointment by outgoing Gov. Allan Shivers to sit in the Senate seat of Price Daniel until an election is held April 2 to fill the unexpired term.

Daniel, who had served as senator, won the gubernatorial race in last November's general election.

Blakley is a stranger to the role of a politician and says he has no intention of entering the special election on April 2. He is no stranger to politicians, however.

In Texas where politics generate deep and lasting feuds, he is not only a good friend of Shivers, but also of Shivers' political enemies Senator Lyndon Johnson, House Speaker Sam Rayburn and Daniel.

Like many other Texans, Blakley — "a lifelong Democrat" — voted for Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956 for President while supporting Senator Johnson's successful bid for re-election in 1952.

* * *

WITH ALL of his Texas appearance, the new senator, who favors wide, black bow ties and dark suits and buys Italian - imported Stetson - type hats by the dozens so he'll always have a clean one, is not a Texan by birth. He was born Nov. 17, 1988, in Miami Station, Mo., while his parents were on their way to Oklahoma Indian territory in a covered wagon.

In Oklahoma where his father was in the cattle business, Blakley attended high school at Arapahoe and worked as a cowboy, a pastime he follows to this day on his ranches near Dallas in West Texas and in New Mexico.

Nearly every Sunday after attending church services, Blakley spends the afternoon with his horses on the nearby 1,200 acre ranch.

* * *

BLAKLEY attended the University of Oklahoma, then entered the banking business and married the banker's daughter. He migrated to Texas during the early oil boom days and was in banking at Ranger before coming to Dallas in the early 1920s, already a CPA at the time. He read law in various Dallas law offices and was admitted to the Texas bar in 1932.

Blakley made his first bonanza in California real estate and in oil and gas in the years just prior to World War II.

After entering the insurance business in Dallas on a small scale during the war, he later bought controlling interest of a Scranton, Pa., insurance company. He is now chairman of the board of his three insurance companies, all with headquarters in Dallas.

Blakley's interest in aviation and his large acquirement of airline stock resulted from his association as personal secretary and advisor to the late Tom E. Braniff.

For relaxation Blakley holds oldtime roundups complete with chuck wagons on his ranches, spending about 30 days of each year on the range, riding fences, bulldozing a few steers, occasionally riding wild horses.

* * *

BLAKLEY has supported the Southwestern Legal foundation at Southern Methodist university in Dallas, making it possible for scores of lawyers from the Americas to study here. This same sense of philanthropy led him to include plans for a medical research center in his mammoth Exchange Park project.

As one of his associates said, "Bill has a real aversion to publicity about himself or anything he is connected with—he thinks it makes a thing lose its true and spiritual value."

While his parents were on their way to Oklahoma Indian territory, they stopped in Miami Station, Mo., to usher William into the world Nov. 17, 1898.

Attended high school in Oklahoma and worked as a cowboy.

After college he entered the banking business and later married the banker's daughter.

COLUMBUS (AP)—The House Education Committee Wednesday night approved a resolution giving a Senate-House commission the go-ahead to study possible state purchase of Malabar Farm in Richland County, home of the late Louis Bromfield.

Little Business At Council Meet

Several Matters Under Discussion

Most of the session of city council Wednesday night was spent in discussing various problems, but no outstanding matters of business came up for attention.

Ashall Judy, who lives in a house on the Bud Brownell tract on Washington Ave., purchased by the city and township for cemetery purposes, was present to see to whom he should pay the $20 rental charged for the premises, and was told to pay it to the city auditor, Miss Marie Melvin.

The rental is for the house, yards and garden. The barn is not used by Judy, and is for rent, it was noted.

A resolution to accept a plat of the Gilmore-Brownell addition, was presented, but was held up until Gilmore presents a plat for 10 lots, the remainder of the addition having been incorporated in a previous plat, it was learned.

The matter of run-around on the south end of Ely St. came up and it was announced provisions had made for it. It will be placed on the plat as part of the addition.

The matter of placing stop signs on the alley between W. Market and W. Temple Sts., back of the Cherry Hotel property, was discussed and referred to the Safety Service Committee and Chief Vaiden Long.

City Manager James F. Parkinson was authorized to contact Councilman Paul Van Voorhis to ascertain whether he intends to remain on council, as the vote of the additional member is frequently needed. Van Voorhis moved to Chillicothe recently but has submitted no formal resignation.
